VOL. LXXVIII. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1905. NO. 35

YES, IN 300 YEARS.

Some one is casting reflections on Prof R. L. Watts, a Farmers' Institute lecturer, by intimating that the lecturer thinks it possible for the farmers of Penns Valley to build a road across the Seven Mountains, by the aid of the state under the Sproul road law, and thus have a first-class market. Mr. Watts is better schooled than to make such a ridiculous assertion.

Take your pencil, please, and follow these figures. Under the Sproul road law the state pays eighty-seven and one-half per centum of the cost of the road and the county and township through which the road passes divide the remainder of the expense equally. The specifications of the road department are such that all roads heretofore built under state supervision have cost above $5000 per mile.

Neither Mifflin nor Centre county has used any of its appropriation for roads. It has a combined credit with the state for road purposes of $17,000, or an average of $3000 per year.

It is twenty-three miles from Centre Hall to Lewistown. This road built according to state specifications would cost $115,000. The county and townships would have to pay $14,000 of this, and the state $101,000.

But here is the rub: If all the funds due both counties were combined it would require over sixteen years to build this road.

If the townships through which this road passes would only get their quota of the appropriation offered by the state, it would be several hundred years before a Sproul highway would be completed between Centre Hall and Lewistown.

A too long time, especially when farm produce is perishable matter.

Republicans who want good reasons not to vote for Plummer for state treasurer, can find them by reading any issue of the Philadelphia Press. The reasons given there are presented by Hon. Charles Emory Smith, a distinguished gentleman Republicans hold in great respect.

On sober thought, does not the magnanimity of the Emperor of Japan overshadow Roosevelt's effort as a peacemaker? Had Roosevelt been the Emperor, would there have been peace? Hardly. It is because of the greatness of the heart of the Emperor of the Flowery Kingdom that there is peace today.

Judge Kennedy's decree restraining twenty-one accused dealers in oleomargarine from further selling that commodity in Allegheny county, is a stunning blow on the oleo combine and a sweeping victory for the pure food forces.

The Grand Army of the Republic will contribute to the complete unity and good fellowship of the sections by holding its next annual encampment in a southern city, and Atlanta is the city.

After everybody else is through claiming the credit for bringing about a peace treaty, Kaiser Bill may arise in his imperial dignity and modestly explain how he did it.

Seventy-five per cent of the school teachers in the United States belong to the feminine gender. The male pedagogue threatens to become extinct.

Colonel Bryan is to visit the Philippines. Might be prudent to work those pesky islands off on the Japs before the colonel reaches Manila.

Charley Schwab can now get busy building Russia's new navy.

LOCALS.

The Free Library, Grange Arcadia, will be open to the public Saturday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The local markets—grain and produce—appear in the Reporter each week, and are corrected carefully.

The barn of Henry M. Swartz, near Millheim, recently destroyed by fire caused by a bolt of lightning, is being rebuilt.

Altoona is a busy place according to a report from David Sweetwood, of Potters Mills, who came from that busy railroad town last Saturday to spend a short time with his family. Mr. Sweetwood boards with Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Burkholder, and, like its papa and mamma, he thinks that Burkholder baby the only baby worth mentioning.

Among others who attended the Williams Grove picnic from this section were Messrs. L. L. Smith, John J. Arney, I. Mervin Arney, J. F. Smith, Robert Smith, all of Centre Hall; Isaac Tressler, Pennsylvania Furnace; Hon. L. Rhone, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Luse, Centre Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Hartman, Millheim; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gramley, Rebersburg.

DEATHS.

H. CHARLES BRUNGART.

An honored and respected citizen in Miles township—H. Charles Brungart—died at his home at Wolfs Store, of dropsy and heart disease, aged fifty-eight years. He is survived by a widow and the following children: W. A., A. M., Mary L and John L. Brungart, all at home, and Mrs. Ella Overdorf, of Wolfs Store; also one brother, John Brungart, of Allentown. Funeral services were held at Rebersburg, interment being made in the Union cemetery at that place. Rev. H. C. Bixler, of the Lutheran church, conducted the services.

DR. JAMES McENTIRE.

Several weeks ago Dr. James McEntire, of Howard, was thrown from an automobile and sustained an injury to his knee, the result being blood poisoning, from which he died while at the Williamsport hospital. He was born at Houserville about fifty-four years ago, being a son of Lawrence McEntire. By profession he was a dentist, and a number of years ago was a resident of Centre Hall. He is survived by a wife and four children; also three brothers—Dr. W. O McEntire, Howard; Harry and Edward C. McEntire, of Williamsport.

JOHN ROYER.

John Royer died at his home in Millheim of a complication of diseases, aged sixty-nine years. Deceased was a resident of that town all his life, and was a carpenter by trade. He is survived by a widow and four children: Edward, of Centre Hall; Charles W., of Emporia, Kansas; William and Mrs Lottie Reish, of Millheim. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. I. N. Bair. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery, Millheim.

FRANK NEESE.

The death of Frank Neese occurred at his home in Auburn, New York, on the twenty-second day of last month, aged thirty-one years. Mr. Neese was operated on for appendicitis, and lived but ten days thereafter.

The deceased was married to Miss Emma Breon, daughter of Elias Breon, of Smullton, who survives, also a young son. He is also survived by the following brothers: Robert and Howard, of Auburn, N. Y., and John, of Centre Hall.

MICHAEL P. WEAVER.

Michael P. Weaver, an old and highly respected citizen of Axe Mann, died at his home at that place Friday afternoon, aged eighty-four years. The deceased was a life long member of the Methodist church and for forty years was a class leader.

He leaves to mourn his loss one son, Thomas M. Weaver, of Axe Mann.

JOHN WEAVER.

John Weaver died at his home in Gregg township of diseases incident to old age. His age was eighty years and five months. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Rearick and interment was made in the Union cemetery at Farmers Mills.

LOCALS.

Progress Grange will hold its regular meeting Saturday, 9th inst., at 2 p. m.

J. Perry Wood, who is a son of Rev. J. A. Wood, Jr., of Bellefonte, has been appointed a Police Judge at Pasadena, California.

Miss Ella Decker, of Potters Mills, recently returned from a visit to Pittsburg and other points in the western part of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Josephine Wagner, of Lancaster, is the guest of the family of D. K. Geiss, in Centre Hall. Mr. Wagner, now deceased, was a cousin of Mrs. Geiss.

John Reish, formerly landlord of the National hotel, at Millheim, will be found at the Irvin House, Lock Haven, where he is engaged as a bar tender.

Farmers are putting in their fall seeding. The soil is in splendid condition, there being an abundance of moisture to guarantee germination of the seed.

Albert Vogit, of Tyrone, was a guest at the home of Dr. J. F. Alexander over Sunday. Mr. Vogit is a clothier, and came to town, strange to say, to press his suit.

This season the Walnut Theatre, Philadelphia, will be entirely new, except the outside, which remains as it has been, for historic reasons. It opens with "Woodland," the first week in October.

United States Senator Boies Penrose will be at the Grange Encampment and Exhibition, Centre Hall, Thursday, September 21st. His address will be of general interest to farmers, and not of a political nature.

GRANGE ENCAMPMENT AND FAIR.

The Largest and Grandest Ever Held at Grange Park, with a Splendid Street Fair of a High Order.

In another week arrangements for the Encampment and Exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry, at Grange Park, Centre Hall, will be completed, and from present indications will be the largest and best Encampment and Grange Fair ever held at Grange Park, which will deserve the patronage of the best people of the land.

The Encampment will open Saturday, September 16th, with all the old campers, to which will be added many new parties. The arrangement of camp will be greatly improved with new furniture and every convenience possible. Those camping will be from the best class of people of town and country.

The formal opening will take place Saturday evening, 16th instant, with a grand festival by Progress Grange.

The Harvest Home services will be held Sunday, the 17th, 2.30 p. m, in the auditorium. Dr. James W. Boal, of Centre Hall, will preach the anniversary sermon, and the music will be conducted jointly by the choirs of all the churches of Centre Hall. Every one should feel free to attend these services and show their good will to those who till the soil so that all the people may be fed.

Monday, the 18th, will be the opening of the exhibition and completion of camp.

Monday evening, "A Noble Outcast," by the Media Dramatic Club, in the auditorium.

Tuesday, 19th, will be formal opening of the exhibition with a carnival of all exhibitors and business men that should not be missed.

Tuesday evening, "Shaun Aroon," by the Media Dramatic Club, in the auditorium.

Wednesday, 20th, the Knights of the Golden Eagle of Clinton and Centre counties will have charge of the meetings with a grand parade by their order.

Wednesday evening, "Down East," by the Media Dramatic Club, in the auditorium.

Thursday, 21st, a grand rally of all the Granges of Central Pennsylvania, at 10.30 a. m. Addresses by Rev. A. C. Lathrop, of Milesburg, and J. T. Allman, Secretary State Grange.

1.30 p. m., addresses by W. F. Hill, Master of the State Grange, United States Senator Boies Penrose, and Dr. B. H. Warren, Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Thursday evening, "The Home Guard," by the Media Dramatic Club, in the auditorium.

Friday, 22nd, 1 p. m., grand auction sale of live stock, to which all persons are admitted and can bring stock for sale, application to be made to the superintendent of the stock department or the chairman. A nominal fee will be charged for each animal entered, to defray the expenses of sale. All animals for sale to be entered by Wednesday, so as to give opportunity to properly advertise.

All are invited to come and hear economic questions relating to the welfare of the agricultural class discussed from a non partizan standpoint, as there will be no partizan discussions.

EXCURSION RATES.

The Trunk Line Association offers excursion rates over all lines in Pennsylvania at a fare and one-third for the round trip from points in Pennsylvania, including Baltimore, Md., and Elmira, N. Y., (without card orders); tickets to be sold and good going September 14th to 22nd, and returning to September 25th, inclusive.

Special trains will be run on account of the Encampment and Fair at Grange Park, Centre Hall, September 16th to 22nd, leaving Bellefonte Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 10 a. m. and 6.30 p. m., stopping at intermediate stations. Also leaving Grange Park for Bellefonte on the same days at 9.45 p. m.

OFFICES ON THE GROUND.

A telegraph, telephone and distributing postoffice will be on the camp ground during the exhibition for the convenience of the public.

HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.

The heads of the various departments of the Encampment and Fair are appended. They will be glad to give any information by mail or otherwise.

L. Rhone, Centre Hall, chairman.

D. M. Campbell, Linden Hall, Secretary County Grange.

George Dale, State College, R. F. D., Superintendent of Implement Exhibit.

George L. Goodhart, Centre Hall, Supt. of Agricultural Exhibit.

Nathan Grove, Lemont, assistant to Mr. Goodhart.

John S. Dauberman, Centre Hall, Supt. of Improvements.

Geo. Gingerich, Centre Hall, Supt. Farm Stock Exhibit.

Cyrus Brungart, Centre Hall, Supt. Poultry Exhibit.

George Nearhood, Centre Hall, Supt. of Illumination.

Dr. John Riter, Centre Hall, Chief of Police.

How to Dose a Dog.

A dose of castor oil is as disagreeable to the ailing dog as to the ailing human being. He kicks against it, and does right, when he is grabbed by the back of the neck, and with his jaws yanked apart with a towel awaits the nasty dose. This is poured down his neck—on the outside. It is usually followed by a few more doses, all of which go the same way, which is the wrong way. The jaws are in a vise, the dog is in torture, and he is ready to condemn his very best friend for thus treating him shabbily. If they only were sensible enough to know how any dog, from the meanest cur to the bluest blooded canine on earth, was in the habit of taking his oil, it would be different, but they are all at sea on the subject, and poor doggie is about dead when a friend utters:

"Hump! All chumps on dogs, I see. Pour the stuff over the poor fellow's paws."

Lo, and behold! The wise few who thought they knew all about dogs and dog things learned something to their credit when they saw how carefully Towser licked his paws, cleaned them, and thus took his oil without fuss and in the proper way.—Outing.

That Painter.

The artist who had found Marshby full of "paintable" places and friendly people was much attracted by one of the young women of the village, whom he met at a social gathering. He asked and was accorded permission to escort her home from a little party one evening, and, as the evening was mild and the moon was shining, they lingered at her gate for a few minutes' conversation. Suddenly the stillness was broken by a hoarse shout which came from an open window of the little house:

"Cast off that painter! Cast off that painter!"

The artist started as if he had been shot, but the young woman gave him a reassuring smile and a becoming blush.

"It's—it's just father dreaming," she said softly. "He's a retired sea captain and often talks in his sleep."

A Poor Man of Mutton.

A "poor man of mutton" is a term applied to a shoulder of mutton in Scotland after it has been served as a roast at dinner and appears as a broiled bone at supper or at the dinner next day. One of the former earls of B., popularly known as "Old Rag," was indisposed at a hotel in London. When one morning the landlord came to enumerate the good things in his larder and to prevail on his guest to eat something, his lordship replied, "Landlord, I think I could eat a morsel of a poor man." This, together with the extremely unprepossessing appearance of his lordship's countenance, is said to have so terrified poor Boniface that he fled incontinently from the room and tumbled headlong downstairs.

Names of Guns on Men-of-war.

"In the olden days," remarked a veteran sea captain the other day, "the custom obtained of giving names to the guns on men-of-war.

"In the case of the United States frigate Chesapeake the principal guns bore distinctive names, as follows: Brother Jonathan, True Blue, Yankee Protection, Putnam, Raging Eagle, Viper, General Warren, Mad Anthony, America, Washington, Liberty Forever, Dreadnaught, Defiance, Liberty or Death, United Tars, Jumping Billy, Rattler, Bulldog, Spitfire, Nancy Dawson, Revenge, Bunker's Hill, Pocahontas, Towser, Willful Murder. These names were engraved on small squares of copper plate."—Washington Star.

Polo Is Ancient.

Polo was played from the backs of horses in Persia during the tenth and eleventh centuries. At that time the Persians in a great contest, Iran versus Turan, found their match in the Turks, greatly to the disgust of King Afrasiab. The Byzantine poet Nizami sung of polo in the twelfth century. Then polo spread from Persia into central Asia, India and Tibet in the sixteenth century, when the great Emperor Akbar patronized it. In Japan the game is at least 1,000 years old and is still popular under the name of daskin, or "ball-match."

He Knew His Man.

"You seem depressed."

"Yes, I've got to ask my girl's father tonight for her hand."

"Bosh! Don't be alarmed. The stern father exists only in the comic papers."

"Maybe so, but the borrowing father is a painful reality. He'll hand me for a fifty to a dead moral certainty."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Her Tremolo.

"Ah, how I love to hear your daughter sing!" said Archie as he waited in the parlor. "She's practicing her exercises now, isn't she? What a beautiful tremolo."

"No," replied the mamma scornfully. "She has had the sore throat for three days. She's taking a gargle."—Indianapolis Star.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 Years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

INCIDENTS OF 1873.

Local Items Taken from the Centre Reporter of Interest to 1905 Readers.

[Note: The spelling of proper names is the same as found in the files of the Reporter.]

MARCH 12—The establishment of a county poor farm is being agitated, and one of the sites in contemplation is the George Durst farm, on Nittany Mountain. [This is the farm now owned by J. C. Dale.]

The postoffice at Powelton, Centre county, was discontinued.

[While in Versailles, Morgan county, Missouri, Scott Stover, who went to that place from Rebersburg, wrote the Reporter an interesting letter, telling the good qualities of that section of country.]

Messrs. Jacob Yearick and Henry Wirt have purchased the Brumgard farm in Sugar Valley, for over $24,500.

The Lutherans in the lower end of Haines township think of erecting a new church. The Methodists of the Centre Hall congregation are also contemplating the erection of a new edifice.

Centre county now has seven Granges.

Dr. William Runkle has finished his studies in Medical College, Philadelphia, and is in town.

MARCH 19—The house of Samuel Gettig, near Farmville, Va., was recently destroyed by fire. Loss estimated at $1500. Mr. Gettig, but a short time ago, left this county to make his home in Virginia.

Elias Lose sold the house and lot adjoining his residence, on Water street, Millheim, to Abe Harter for $1,225.

Mrs. Jacob Wolf, of Wolf's Store, while carrying a bucket of water, fell and broke her limb at the knee.

APRIL 1—John H. Miller, of Spring Mills, and H. C. Beamer became citizens of Centre Hall.

W. R. Miller was appointed postmaster for the new postoffice of Sandy Ridge. James T. Stuart was appointed postmaster at Boalsburg.

Trains began running as far as Laurelton, on the last of the month.

[The Reporter in almost every issue makes reference to the Grange in derogatory way—in fact, the language used implies almost any and everything. For instance: "A movement prematurely made, always brings with it ruin and disgrace." After holding a membership in the order for twenty-four years, the present editor of the Reporter has seen neither ruin wrought by the Grange, nor disgrace brought upon any of its members. The Grange is well alive today, respected by all, and feared by the devil and his horde.]

[It was common in the seventies, and a good custom it was, to close the public schools with exhibitions. The Reporter gives an extended account of one of these closing exercises at Plumgrove school, Prof. Fred Jamison teacher, from which the following is taken:—]

After an address by Prof. Jamison, Misses Maggie Hoffer and Amanda Smith, of Centre Hall, sang a beautiful duet. The services of the two ladies had been secured for the occasion. The introductory was delivered by James W. McCormick, who pleased the audience very much. The "Welcome" was then recited by Miss Koch. One particular declaimer who impressed the audience was Frank Reymond. His subject was "Fighting de Musketer." He made a great many gestures in connection with his delivery, and one was led to think that the "musketer" was troubling him while before the audience. Luther Emerick delivered a stump speech; he, by some practice, would make an elegant speaker. The valedictory was delivered by Francis A. Foreman, who performed his part admirably.

Married—February 15, Rev. J. H. Houseman and Miss M. L. Buck, at the residence of the bride in Pine Grove Mills . . . At St. Louis, Mo., Henry Krape, of Jasper county, Iowa, and Miss Amanda Bear, of Rebersburg . . . February 19, William Durst and Mrs. Elizabeth Logue, both of Harris township . . . February 24, Peter Fisher Keller and Miss Maggie Boozer, both of Centre Hall . . . February 26, Enoch W. Sweeney and Miss Sarah C. Musser, both of Boalsburg.

Pastor Elected at Bellefonte.

The members of the Lutheran church, Bellefonte, at an election held last Sunday, elected Rev. W. M. Rearick, of West Milton, as pastor. Rev. Rearick is a younger brother of Rev. J. M. Rearick, of Centre Hall, and has been very successful in the ministry.

Cause of Insomnia.

Indigestion nearly always disturbs the sleep more or less and is often the cause of insomnia. Many cases have been cured by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

Man's wants are small, as such things go,
And here's the simple test:
Man wants but little here below
And woman wants the rest.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

The Potter township schools opened Monday.

The black bird is no longer protected by law, and consequently may be killed at any time. That bird has a bad reputation.

O. M. Lonbarger, of near Pleasant Gap, will be one of the exhibitors at the Encampment and Exhibition at Centre Hall.

Four cows, the property of John Schrack, of near Loganton, were struck by lightning and killed while pasturing in a field.

The members of Millheim camp, No. 9833, Modern Woodmen of America, intend holding a banquet Friday evening, September 8.

Mr. Robinson is about ready to begin operating his stave mill on the Houser tract of one hundred and seventy acres, south of Pleasant Gap.

Centre Hall was well represented at Court last week. Messrs. Lyman Smith, Andrew J. Reesman, Frank Ishler and D. L. Bartges were jurors.

L. F. Roan, representing the Grand Union Tea Company, will canvass the town on or about the third of each month, with a full line of the company's stock.

The price paid for the Stover property, in Aaronsburg, by ex-Sheriff John P. Condo, was $1425. Mr. Condo will become a resident of Aaronsburg about the first of October.

J. Emory Hoy came up from Philadelphia Thursday of last week to spend several days with Mrs. Hoy and daughter, Elizabeth, who have been staying at the Mingle home for the past month or more.

John Boozer, the Osceola undertaker, was in town the other day. He was a witness on a case in court, and took advantage of a postponement of the hearing to visit his brother, D. A. Boozer, in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Moyer, of Centre Mills, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Miriam, a short time ago started on a trip through Western Pennsylvania and Ohio. They will go as far as Toledo and then back to Niagara Falls.

During a recent rain Pine Creek, at Woodward, rose to a level even higher than that experienced during the 1889 flood. There was evidently a cloud burst somewhere in Pine Creek Hollow. The citizens of Woodward, for a short time, were seriously alarmed.

Mrs. D. L. Bartges accompanied her two grandchildren to Tyrone, Saturday where they were met by their father, T. C. Bartges. The children had spent almost the entire summer at "Cloverdale," but as school opened this week the eldest of the little girls was obliged to be on hand in order to secure a seat in the crowded school room.

Two young men who gave their names as James Wilson, Wilkesbarre, and Joseph Grant, Hazelton, were arrested at the Philipsburg firemen convention and landed in Bellefonte jail. They were accused of picking pockets. On their persons were found two gold watches and chains, the latter presenting the appearance of having been cut with nippers.

"Wash-Easy" is a new solution being put on the market by a Philadelphia firm that has a member in it who formerly was a Centre countain. It does away with rubbing, boiling and the use of large quantities of soap. Write to The Wash-Easy Manufacturing Company, 44 and Wallace Street, Philadelphia, for a free sample bottle, or to W. Gross Mingle, Bellefonte, sales agent for Central Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Zeigler, of Spring Mills, recently made a trip to Asbury Park, stopping in Philadelphia for a few days. They were delighted with both places. Mr. Zeigler is a musician, and was much impressed with the music he heard at the great summer resort. While in Philadelphia he was, for a part of the time, the guest of a musical instrument firm, and among other places of amusement taken by their hosts, was Keith's theatre, which Mr. Zeigler declares to be a marvel of grandeur.

Emanuel Kerstetter, of near Coburn while assisting Jacob Moyer at his planing mill, accidentally had the shirt sleeve of his right arm caught in the planer and before he could loosen it his arm was drawn into the machinery, as is related by the Millheim Journal. Only the looseness of the belt on the machine saved the arm from being torn from his body. As it was, the instant his arm was caught in the machine the belt slipped off and the machine stopped. Several terrible gashes were cut in the arm from the wrist to the shoulder which caused excruciating pain to Mr. Kerstetter. Dr. G[illegible] dressed the wounds and at this writing they are healing nicely.

SIGN THE TREATY FIRST

Armistice Will Not Be Effective Until Then.

THE JAPANESE RAISE OPPOSITION.

Sato Explains That Japan Does Not Desire to Have Armistice Go Into Effect Until All Commanders on Sea and Land Have Been Notified—Not the Slightest Chance for a Clash Pending the Drawing of Treaty.

New Castle, N. H. (Special).—An armistice was arranged and an agreement signed Friday by the Russian and Japan plenipotentiaries. But it does not go into effect until the peace treaty itself has been signed.

The Japanese envoys refused their consent to a complete cessation of hostilities until the treaty has been signed, stating as the reason that owing to the fact that their troops are widely scattered over vast areas of territory it would not be possible to get word to all the commanders in the field.

Japan indicated a willingness to arrange an immediate armistice, and with this object in view M. Witte, Baron Rosen and the secretaries of the Russian mission proceeded to Baron Komura's room in the hotel for the purpose of making the arrangement. They were very much surprised to find that Baron Komura was under instructions from his Government not to make an armistice arrangement immediately effective. The discussion lasted altogether 30 minutes. M. Witte expressed surprise at the Japanese attitude, and said that an armistice was not necessary if there was not to be actual cessation of hostilities until the treaty is finally signed. The Japanese, however, insisted that an armistice agreement be made, and finally the arrangement was completed and signed, with a provision that it take effect whenever the peace treaty receives the signatures of the envoys of the Czar and the Mikado.

An unexpected conference of the envoys was held in M. Witte's room at 9.30 P. M. Mr. Sato announced that it had to do with the translation of one of the articles of treaty. The drafting committee has been unable to agree on the phraseology, and this required reference to the envoys themselves. An agreement was quickly reached.

Progress is being made on the completion of the treaty with remarkable rapidity. Mr. De Martens and Mr. Dennison had two sessions, and, altogether 10 articles of the document were completed. The document when finished will have altogether 15 articles.

There has been little or no difficulty up to the present time in the matter of phraseology.

Until the time of signing has been settled no arrangement for the departure of the envoys can be made. Both missions will leave New Castle immediately after the final act and pay a farewell visit to President Roosevelt. M. Witte and Baron Komura will go separately to Oyster Bay for farewell visits and for the purpose of expressing the thanks of their respective Emperors.

A YOUNG FIEND'S CRIME.

Saturates a Companion With Gasoline and Sets Him On Fire.

Hannibal, Mo. (Special).—Charles Christian, 11 years old, son of Lee Christian, was roasted alive in Union street here by another boy named McLain, who dashed a can of gasoline over the clothes of young Christian and then applied a lighted match.

Christian was playing in the street with several other boys when McLain walked up swinging a gasoline can. After twice threatening to roast the Christian boy alive, he finally made his word good. He unscrewed the cap of the can, rushed upon Christian and drenched him from head to foot with gasoline. Before the unfortunate lad could get away he touched a lighted match to his trousers, which were soaked with gasoline. Instantly the boy was enveloped in flames. He fell to the ground screaming in agony and fighting the fire. Many persons ran to the rescue, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Every stitch of clothing was burned from young Christian's back. The boy will die.

Eloped at 96.

Austin, Tex. (Special).—Kiler Botts, 96 years of age, came here from his home, near Gonzales, Tex., for the purpose of marrying Mrs. Elizabeth Mobley, 74 years of age. He found that members of Mrs. Mobley's family were opposed to the marriage, and the old but spry couple arranged to defeat all opposition by an elopement. They slipped off and went to Lockhart, where they were married.

Bubonic Plague Feared.

San Jose, Costa Rica (By Cable).—The government is taking strong measures to prevent possible contagion from bubonic plague, and is urging upon the medical authorities the desirability of circulating the best advice among the people. The American steamer Washington, and the Itatlian steamer La Veloce, both of which touched at Colon, were not allowed to enter Port Limon.

998,246 On Pension Roll.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—The advance copies of the annual report of Commissioner of Pensions Vespasian Warner have been received from the printer, but on account of the absence from the city of the Secretary of the Interior will not be given out at present. The report shows that on June 30, 1905, there were 998,246 pensioners on the rolls.

Find Seven-Foot Skeletons.

Fond du Lac, Wis., (Special).—Two skeletons each measuring more than seven feet in length were found in a gravel pit in Forest, near this place. The skulls are twice as large as those of an ordinary adult and the thigh bones are almost six inches longer than those of a six-foot man. It is probable the skeletons, which are thought to be the remains of some prehistoric race, will be sent to Milwaukee for examination.

NOW AT WORK ON THE TREATY.

Portsmouth, N. H. (Special).—With peace agreed upon between the plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan and only the perfunctory arrangement of verbal details remaining for the treaty makers, interest in the Portsmouth conference has greatly decreased as far as Portsmouth is concerned, and the air of expectancy and excitement which has surrounded the negotiations has practically passed away.

Wednesday those charged with drafting the convention have been hard at work. The envoys have done nothing. Their services will not be again required until the formal comparison of the drafts is in order. It was explained by one of those entrusted with the duty of putting the agreement of the plenipotentiaries into English and French that the treaty, which will be in quadruplicate—a copy in each language for each side—will be ready for signature in about a week.

Mr. Witte will sail from New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. on September 12. It is his desire to pay a brief visit to Chicago and Niagara Falls before he leaves the United States, and the expectation is that the envoys of both belligerents, with all their subordinates, will depart from Portsmouth by Saturday week at the latest.

Mr. Witte spent most of the day in his apartments. His colleague, Baron Rosen, wandered around the Wentworth and seemed to find time hanging on his hands. Baron Komura was not much in evidence, and Mr. Takahira, the junior Japanese envoy, remained in bed. It was explained that Mr. Takahira was fatigued.

A very anomalous situation exists as to the impression created by the conclusion of peace. While the outside world applauds, in Japan there is evidently great disappointment in the terms, and in Russia, where it would seem that there should be universal rejoicing over the great diplomatic victory Mr. Witte has won, the government seems to have received it coldly.

With the people it will make Mr. Witte a great and popular figure and add to his laurels, but at court evidently the very victory Mr. Witte has achieved makes it all the more bitterly resented.

BALDWIN BLOWN TO ATOMS.

Balloonist's Frightful Death High Up in the Clouds.

Greenville, O., (Special).—Prof. A. Baldwin, airship exhibitor, was blown to atoms by the explosion of six sticks of dynamite in his balloon while 1,500 feet in the air. His wife and two children were in the crowd of 25,000 persons who saw the calamity.

Baldwin had been giving daily exhibitions at the county fair. He would ascend several thousand feet in the air and explode half a dozen sticks of dynamite at different times. Thursday he had mounted 1,500 feet in the air and his airship was soaring gracefully. While the crowd was watching him there appeared in the sky where the airship had been a great cloud of smoke. A few seconds later there came down a great report from the clouds, the smoke obscured the view and fragments of the airship began falling. Baldwin had literally been blown to bits by the explosion. His body was picked up over a space of several acres and removed to a morgue.

Baldwin's wife screamed when she saw the smoke, long before the explosion, for her practised eye told her of the tragedy which had occurred in the clouds. She fell in a dead faint before the vast crowd had realized what was happening. No one can tell how the accident occurred. The six sticks of dynamite exploded simultaneously, as only one report was heard. Men's faces blanched and women fainted as the fragments of the ship and the aeronaut's body fell.

Baldwin was from Losantville, Ind., and was 36 years of age. He had been engaged for a long while in giving balloon and airship exhibitions at county fairs.

PHOTOGRAPHED FORTS.

How a Boston Physician Got Into Trouble in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica (By Cable).—Dr. Franklin Clarke, of Boston, was tried here before the Chief Justice, for a breach of the official secrets act, in taking photographs of the fortifications of the Port Royal.

The crown prosecutor argued that foreign powers whould pay largely for such photographs, but the evidence against the accused was conflicting and the lawyers for the defense urged that there had been no criminal intent, Dr. Clarke being animated simply by photographic enthusiasm.

The Chief Justice summed up in favor of the prisoner and the jury failed to agree and was discharged.

Price of Pine Raised.

Beaumont, Texas, (Special).—The Southern Lumber Manufacturers' Association has announced a general advance of $1 a thousand feet on pine. Statistical information shows a decrease in stocks during July of 26,000,000 feet and an involuntary curtailment in the same month of 86,000,000 feet among 149 mills. Demand is so brisk that most of the mills throughout the territory are working double shifts.

Massacre of Armenians.

Tiflis, (By Cable).—The town of Shusha is besieged by Tartars, who are well armed and are massacring the Armenians. Telegraphic communication with Shusha is cut.

Coach Turned Over.

Washington (Special).—The rear coach on a South Carolina and Georgia Railroad train turned over at Reynolds street crossing, Augusta, Ga. F. J. Murphy, police health officer of Augusta, was killed. The injured are Geo. Lott, flagman, both legs cut off; J. A. Brown, employee, Augusta yards, back sprained; M. Kalliskie, passenger, Augusta, side slightly hurt. The train had just left the Augusta Union Station and was moving about two miles an hour through the city.

CZAR TO ROOSEVELT

Remarkable Message Giving Him All Honor.

THE GRATITUDE OF RUSSIA.

Friendly Felicitations From the Emperor of Austria—Congratulations Continue to Pour in Upon the President From All Parts of the World—All Unite in Giving Him Credit for His Great Work.

Emperor Nicholas: "My country will gratefully recognize the great part you have played in the Peace Conference."

Emperor Francis Joseph: "Friendliest felicitations. May the world be blessed with many years' continuance of peace undisturbed."

Emperor William: "The unstinted expressions of admiration and satisfaction lavished on him from all sides are in every respect well merited."

Oyster Bay, L. I., (Special).—Emperor Nicholas of Russia has recognized gratefully the great part which President Roosevelt played in the successful negotiations for peace. In a cablegram received by President Roosevelt Emperor Nicholas congratulated and thanked the President for his efforts. The cablegram follows:

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Whose Persistent Efforts Made Peace Possible.

Peterhof, Alexandria, Aug. 31.

President Roosevelt:

Accept my congratulations and earnest thanks for having brought the peace negotiations to a successful conclusion, owing to your personal energetic efforts. My country will gratefully recognize the great part you have played in the Portsmouth peace conference.

NICHOLAS.

That the Russian Emperor should thank President Roosevelt for his efforts to insure peace between Russia and Japan was to have been expected, but it is particularly significant that in his cablegram Emperor Nicholas extended to President Roosevelt his "earnest thanks for having brought the peace negotiations to a successful conclusion."

The dispatch is regarded as one of the most remarkable of its kind ever sent by the head of one nation to that of another.

Congratulatory messages by the score yet are pouring in upon the President. The executive office force is completely swamped, and it will be many days before acknowledgment of the receipt of all messages can be sent out. It will be impossible for President Roosevelt himself to respond to the felicitations of his friends everywhere, but in the course of time the sender of each message will receive a response.

FROM FRANCIS JOSEPH.

Among the messages received was one from the Emperor of Austria-Hungary. It was notably cordial. The text was as follows:

Ischi, August 31.

To the President of the United States of America:

On the occasion of the peace just concluded I wish, Mr. President, to send you my friendliest felicitations on the result of your intervention. May the world be blessed with many years' continuance of peace undisturbed.

FRANZ JOSEPH.

OBSERVATION OF ECLIPSE PERFECT.

Report From Rear Admiral Chester, of United States Squadron.

Washington, D. C., (Special).—The following was issued at the Navy Department:

"Rear Admiral C. M. Chester, commanding the special-service squadron, which was formed in June to proceed to Spain and the northern coast of Africa for the purpose of observing the solar eclipse occurring on August 30, reports as follows:

"'Observation of eclipse in Spain perfect in every respect.'"

London, (By Cable).—A telegram from Sir Norman Lockyer, chief of the eclipse party at Palma, Island of Majorca, says:

"The results were indifferent, owing to unfavorable weather."

Prof. Hugh Callendar, of the Royal College of Science, London, reports from Castellon de la Plana, near Valencia, Spain, that the first and last contacts were observed in a clear sky and that good records of the radiation and temperature were obtained.

Italian and $5,000 Missing.

Fairmont, W. Va. (Special).—Warrants are out for the arrest of Ranfele Dattalo, an Italian merchant, who is alleged to have skipped with $5,000 belonging to his fellow-countrymen. He is supposed to have left for New York to take a steamer for Italy. Officers are on the trail.

BURGLARS TAKE THE SAFE

Amazing Robbery of House on Long Island Sound.

CUT WINDOW GLASS TO GET IN.

Safe Containing Thousands of Dollars' Worth of Jewelry Is Carried From the Second-story Hallway of Paul Bonner's Summer Home—Yard Was Full of Dogs and Doors of Sleepingrooms Were Ajar.

Stamford, Ct. (Special).—A burglary, unique for the daring and success with which it was carried through, took place at "Nirvana," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bonner, of New York and Stamford. The burglars carried away bodily an 800-pound safe, which held about all of Mrs. Bonner's diamonds, jewels and rare old jewelry, as well as $150 in cash. Mrs. Bonner estimates the value of the stolen jewels at $18,000. She declares that many of the gems have a sentimental value that is incalculable in figures. They include gifts from her late husband, James Joseph Alexander, who was a noted steamship owner, and from his father, who practically owned the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and was its head for many years. Many family jewels and heirlooms of the Alexander family were stolen. Much of this belonged to Jerome Alexander, Mrs. Bonner's son, who is soon to attain his majority, and her daughter, Miss Alexander.

A sensational feature is given the robbery by the following note, which was found lying on the floor where the safe rested, and read thus:

"Dear Madam—You will be surprised to find your valuables taken, but on finding this note keep it in secrecy, as we are not to be trifled with. If our freedom is taken your place will be in ruins soon after."

The note was written in a scrawling hand on a fine quality of paper, tinted and delicately perfumed. It was sealed in an envelope to match. There were two crosses below the last sentence. The letter was turned over to Assistant Superintendent Fields, of the Pinkerton agency, and is now in possession of Detective Wilcox, who is working up the case with the assistance of Chief Brennan and Sergeant Nevins, of Stamford.

Nirvana, the home which the burglars threaten to lay in ruins, is situated on the edge of Long Island Sound, at Cummings Point. It is a mansion of many wings and complicatetd architecture. It contains silverware, paintings and bric-a-brac worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. A small fortune in silverware lay exposed to view on a table in front of the burglars when they entered the house. In a safe in the billiard-room closet, which they passed without even a look in, was solid silverware of great value. All this leads Mrs. Bonner and members of her household to believe that the burglars entered the house with the sole purpose of getting her jewels, and that they knew exactly where to look for them.

Paul Bonner is Mrs. Alexander's second husband. Mr. Bonner is engaged in the leather-belting business in New York. In the house at the time of the burglary were Mrs. Bonner, her son, Miss Duane, of New York, a friend of the daughter, and Mrs. Bonner's brother-in-law, C. A. Willis, of Staten Island. There were eight domestics asleep in a distant wing of the house, and a number of men asleep in the outbuildings.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES TOWN.

Series of Shocks Felt Along the Coast—People in Terror.

Portsmouth, N. H. (Special).—A series of earthquake shocks, the most severe ever experienced in this section, were felt here. Buildings trembled perceptibly, dishes were shaken from shelves, and in many cases people rushed in terror from their houses into the street.

There were three distinct shocks, and in each instance the tremor was accompanied by a sound like distant explosion. The first impression was that the powder magazine at the navy yard had exploded, and hundreds of queries along this line were received at the yard. There had been no explosion, however, and the shocks were felt along the entire New Hampshire coast line.

The first shock was felt a little before 5.40 P. M., and the other shocks followed soon after. In the business section of the city the shoppers and store employes rushed out into the streets, believing that the buildings were about to collapse. Each of the three shocks continued for several seconds.

WRECK ON THE SOUTHERN.

Two People Are Killed and Three Others Slightly Injured.

Augusta, Ga. (Special).—City Policeman F. J. Murphy, acting as quarantine officer, was killed outright; Flagman Geo. J. Lott so badly injured that he died at the hospital shortly after, and three others were slightly injured in a wreck of a Southern Railway passenger train on its way to Charleston within the city limits here. After the engine, baggage car and second-class coach had passed the crossing the rear wheels of the first-class coach, owing, it is alleged, to a defective switch, took a siding and the car was thrown completely over.

Officer Murphy, who had jumped and was trying to dodge, was mashed beneath the wreck. Flagman Lott's legs were cut nearly off and he died while they were being amputated. The sleeping car, in the rear of the train, did not leave the track and none of its occupants was hurt. The injured were passengers in the overturned coach.

Struck By Lightning.

Hood River, Ore. (Special).—While examining the contents of the record-box on the summit of Mount Hood, Prof. M. W. Lyon, Mrs. Lyon and Mark Weigant, a guide, were struck by lightning. All three were prostrated. Mrs. Lyon is still in a critical condition, though it is not believed that her injuries will prove fatal. Prof. Lyon and Weigant are both recovering. Prof. Lyon is connected with the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C.

NEW YORK AS SEEN DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

A studio love story, in which the hero and heroine are a young sculptor and his still younger model, is soon to have a happy ending. On September 10 Jacques Papasian, of 206 West Eighty-eight street, whose studio is at 3 East Seventeenth street, will marry Irene Agnes MacAlpine, of 324 East Twenty-sixth street, his former 17-year-old model. Whereby hangs this romance.

One afternoon about eight months ago while the sculptor was at work on a group, "The Struggle for Life," for which he had been unable to find a model for the central female figure, there came a knock at his studio door, and there entered a tall, fair-haired girl who announced herself as Irene MacAlpine, and asked:

"Do you need a model?"

She really was just the model he needed, and in three minutes she was successfully posed, and the statue was growing.

For two weeks Miss MacAlpine posed for Papasian daily, and in those two weeks the sculptors interest in his new model increased even more rapidly than the statue. At the end of that time he avowed his love and proposed marriage. Miss MacAlpine was willing.

Attacked by two savage dogs, her clothing half stripped from her body and her flesh lacerated in many places Mrs. F. Peterson, who lives in Locust street, Corona, Long Island, had a desperate struggle for life on Shell road near Junction avenue. Mrs. Peterson owes escape from more serious and perhaps fatal injuries to the brave efforts of Miss Dixie Havens.

The infuriated brutes ripped her dress open from collar to skirt and tore her shirt waist to fragments. She was fighting desperately when Miss Havens rushed upon the dogs and pulled them from the prostrate woman. Then both the women had to fight the dogs. Just then a trolley car came along and the motorman jumped into the fray. With his controller handle he hit the great Dane a blow on the head that felled it. Miss Havens escaped unharmed, but Mrs. Peterson was taken home suffering from the shock and numerous lacerations.

Klein is a farmer, 48 years old. He never has had the time and curiosity to go to Calicoon to see the steam cars. This season has been good, and Klein prospered so much that he decided to take a day off. Arriving at Calicoon, he stationed himself a good distatnce from the tracks and watched for a train. His amazement was great when a fast express passed. Klein had the time of his life watching the trains go by. He went home satisfied with his vacation.

HABITS OF THE DOVE.

"Billing," Writer Thinks, Corresponds to Our Kissing.

An Englishman, Edmond Selous, has been watching doves at play and in combat. Of the habit of "billing," in which so many birds engage when they are nesting, he says: "Where birds now merely 'bill,' they once, in my opinion, fed each other—or the male fed the female—but pleasure came to be experienced in the contact alone and the passage of food, which was never necessary, gradually became obsolete. I think it by no means improbable that our own kissing may have originated in much the same way and that birds, when thus 'billing,' experience the same sort of pleasure that we do when we kiss must be quite obvious to any one who has watched them."

Of a peculiarity of the stock dove Mr. Selous writes: "When these birds fight they constantly interrupt the flow of the combat by bowing in the most absurd way, not to one another, but, generally, so to speak, for no object or purpose whatever, apparently, but only because they must do so. The fact is, the bow has become a formula of courtship and as courting and fighting are intimately connected the one suggests the other in the mind of the bird, who bows, all at once, under a misconception."

FARM AND GARDEN

PLANT LICE AND THEIR TREATMENT.

It often happens that fruit trees as well as other plants are seriously injured by the attack of aphides, or plant lice as they are more commonly called. They are most likely to appear if the climatic or other conditions are unfavorable to the growth of the trees and of course these should be corrected as much as possible. While much can be done by enriching the land and bringing it into a good mechanical condition, thorough shallow cultivation to hold the moisture in a dry season is the best lice preventive measure.

It often happens, however, that the lice become so abundant as to do much harm to trees especially while they are young. It will then become necessary to use some form of spray. For this purpose there is nothing better than some form of tobacco decoction. Although rather expensive for general use the best results are obtained from some of the concentrated extracts of tobacco that are on the market. Tobacco stems from a cigar factory afford a cheaper source and if the decoction is properly prepared it will be found quite effectual. From a half bushel to three pecks will make 50 gallons of decoction strong enough to kill ordinary plant lice. It will be well to pour hot water over the stems and after it has cooled the barrel can be filled up with cold water. When the water has been poured off, the barrel may be about half filled with water again without replenishing the tobacco.

Although less effectual than tobacco water, kerosene emulsion of the strength recommended for the scale will give very good results. One great difficulty in spraying for the destruction of plant lice is that as a result of their presence the leaves tend to roll about them and the spray does not reach them. This can be to some extent counteracted by using a nozzle that will spray the under side of the leaves. With good pressure much benefit can be obtained. Especially in cases where the leaves are badly curled the addition of one pound of pyrethrum powder to 50 gallons of kerosene emulsion will add to its efficacy as while the kerosene only kills by actual contact, the pyrethrum gives off a volatile oil that is fatal to insects. Care should be taken that the powder is fresh and that the application is very thorough.—L. R. Taft in National Fruit Grower.

THE FALL GARDEN.

Where irrigation can be practiced as in south Texas it is usually in the fall garden where the greatest profits are realized. If cabbage, cauliflower and tomatoes are desired for the Thanksgiving trade seed must be planted in time. During the hot weather it is especially difficult to obtain good growth especially with cabbage and cauliflower plants. The seeds beds should be shaded for best results and special care must be given to watering, and also to protection from insects. Keep tobacco stems on the ground, and have the plants covered with arsenate of lead from the time they appear above ground. Whale oil soap should always be at hand ready for use against lice and other sucking insects.

A great many truckers have moved into south Texas on the new Brownsville railroad, and they will be raising their first fall crop this year. These growers should be especially careful not to introduce on their virgin soil the black rot disease of the cabbage and cauliflower. This disease has nearly destroyed the land for raising these crops in older south Texas sections, and it is to be borne in mind that the disease is brought into the country on cabbage and seed. If you would keep the disease from your fields it can be easily accomplished by treating the seed for fifteen minutes in a disinfecting solution of one part of corrosive sublimate in one thousand parts of water, or one pound of formalin in thirty gallns of water. The treatment does not injure the seed in the least and it is almost sure to prevent the introduction of the most destructive cabbage and cauliflower disease known. The cost and trouble is trifling compared with the probable saving.—National Fruit Grower.

GOOD PLOWING MAKES GOOD CROPS.

We find the following in an exchange credited to Ex. The general idea of the article is correct, but there is one mistake—it is not necessary to invert the soil, unless there is trash on the land that needs to be covered up. The only important thing is to be sure that the soil is thoroughly pulverized.

It is not always the best looking plow fallow that is the best broken land. A plow constructed like a gouge, that slides under the turf and inverts it without breaking it, looks well, but for the production of a crop it prepares the land badly. Many of the plows now on the market are constructed so as to bring the least draught upon the team, and this by many is considered the perfection of the plow—the least draught for a given depth. But may we not be laboring under a mistake in this? The object in plowing is to invert and pulverize the soil and prepare it for a crop. Plowing may be so performed as to invert the soil without breaking it, except in the line of the furrow slice. It is evident that if a crop be planted upon land so turned, the roots of the plant will have to contend with the large unbroken blocks of soil, so hard, indeed, in many instances that the roots can not penetrate them.

THE VALUE OF GUINEAS.

Though guineas are not as serviceable as hens when confined—give them their liberty and they can be raised with such small expense as to return a handsome profit, both in flesh and eggs. Naturally wild, they hide to lay their eggs, but often betray themselves by the noise they make, hence, if one will watch them going to their nests or coming off, they can easily be detected. They generally consist of a little cup-shaped receptacle hollowed out in the earth, and will sometimes be found running over with the little brown eggs, for guineas are prolific layers. The eggs are rich and well flavored too, and preferred by housekeepers for cake and other nice cooking, the yolks in them being much larger in proportion than in hen's eggs; taken dozens for dozens, their food value is about the same. Unfortunately, however, guinea eggs do not always sell well in the market, but they may be kept for home consumption and thus increase the number of hen's eggs for sale. The guinea as a rule is a hardy bird.—The Rural Californian.

DIPPING HOGS.

The main purpose of dipping hogs, says an exchange, is to destroy lice, but it undoubtedly has some advantage in keeping out disease. As to whether it will pay will depend on conditions. If a man is very careful with his hogs—renews the bedding often, burns the old bedding, does not allow them to have filthy pens and does not have too many in a bunch and feeds them rightly, there is usually no need for a dip. But under prevailing conditions, the small outlay in cost is insignificant for value received.

A swine grower says he has had great success in using Zenoleum for both hog and sheep dipping and it costs him much less than other dip to rid his stock of lice and ticks.

TO FATTEN FOWLS.

There are those who say, and with a deal of truth, that fowls are unfit for the table when taken from the yards where they have run at large. They say that in order to have them in prime condition they must be confined in darkened coops for at least two weeks, and be fed all they will eat of cornmeal, rice, potatoes and other fattening foods. They must be given pure water and milk, with grit and a small dust bath. At the end of this time they will be fat and tender and their flavor will be the best.

Where possible, keep only a few in each coop, as six will do much better than double the number. Do not feed green food, but give all they will eat of those kinds mentioned.

New Petroleum Deposits in Asia.

Europe as well as America is interested in the discovery and exploitation of new petroleum deposits, and at present Mesopotamia is the country to which attention is being directed. There have been discovered in the province of Bagdad, near the Tigris and north of Samara, a number of rich springs, while on the Euphrates near Hit similar springs also have been found. On account of the brigands this district does not afford good opportunity for prospecting and development, but in the Kerkuk district the future for such activity is much more promising, and not only petroleum, but also coal, is found, the former being used for lighting by the natives, while the coal has been tried on the Tigris steamships, proving, however, too bituminous. There is every evidence that the petroleum deposits are extensive and will repay ample working, but it is believed that the completion of the Bagdad railway and increased shipping facilities on the Tigris must be provided before they can be turned to practical account.—Harper's Weekly.

The Cabinet and the Presidency.

It is almost fifty years since a President was elected who had previous cabinet experience. James Buchanan was Secretary of State in Polk's administration and returned from the legation in London to run for the Presidential nomination.

To be sure, in earlier days the cabinet was considered a stepping stone to the White House, but this condition ceased long ago. So apparent is the fact that Senator Hoar once characterized the cabinet as the place for an ambitious man to end his ambitions in.

It is not the intention here to show that Secretary Root cannot be nominated for President, but to demonstrate that if he is accorded the honor it will be because he is deserving of the confidence bestowed upon him, and not because he has any advantage of political influence.—Elmira Daily Advertiser.

THE KEYSTONE STATE

Latest News of Pennsylvania Told in Short Order.

John Snyder, of Altoona, has been offered $100,000 for his patent on a steel and concrete railroad tie, which he invented some time ago. Despite the fact that he is a poor man, he has not yet accepted the offer, for the reason that he believes that it will be worth while to consider another proposition. The Pennsylvania Railroad is to give the tie a test, and if it proves satisfactory will make an offer for it.

During a storm, Milton Green, a farmer, living near Hughesville, was struck by lightning and killed. The bolt struck the man on top of the head and passed through his body.

Blaine Cupp, aged 24 years, a son of W. Scott Cupp, of Casselman, was instantly killed on the narrow gauge lumber railroad of the Anderson Lumber Company, at Markleton, while coupling the "dinkey" locomotive to a train load of logs. One of the logs on the first car projected too far forward and young Cupp's head was crushed between the end of the log and the locomotive tender, causing almost instant death. He had been serving as a brakeman since last Spring, but Thursday he told his mother: "This will be the last day for me on the 'dinkey' railroad."

State Fish Commissioner Meehan returned from the Wayne fish hatcheries with the information that the black bass crop this year is a total failure, and there will be none for free distribution for stocking the streams of the State. The cause of the failure is ascribed to the fact that the nine ponds at the fish hatchery in Wayne did not furnish sufficient natural water food in which the young fish could feed.

Sallie Zwiller, of Reading, a 15-year-old factory girl, died of cholera morbus as the result of eating a green apple.

Rev. Henry Seifert, 83 years old, a native of York county, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. C. B. King, Allegheny.

Seneca Hughes, of Raedersville, a well-known carpenter and bridge builder, is dead of typhoid fever at the age of 36 years.

Anthony Bistricham, an engineer at a mine at Plymouth, was so severely injured by being caught in the machinery that he died a few hours later.

Frank Touch, of Wyoming, a driver boy in the Harry E. Colliery, was kicked by a mule and so severely injured that he is not expected to recover.

George Ondko, of Kingston, claiming that he was expelled from the St. Nicholas Society because he was sick, began suit against the society for $1000 damages.

William Sentskey, of Pittston, accidentally shot and fatally wounded 5-year-old Charles Trickditch while examining a loaded rifle. The ball passed through the child's body close to the heart.

Jacob Baugher, of Reading, former clerk of Quarter Sessions of Berks county, has sued Poor Director Jacob Hollenbach for the recovery of $150 he alleges he advanced him during his campaign.

Daniel G. Marsh, of Milton, aged 76, one of the oldest business men of that town, is dead. He was actively engaged in business for more than fifty years, was a veteran of Civil War and an extensive traveler.

Jack Burns, formerly of Tyrone, was taken to jail after swearing at Judge Woods and a lawyer during a trial in which he was called to testify for a man who was convicted of assault and battery.

Harry Seitz pleaded guilty at York to revolting crimes against his 13-year-old daughter, and was sentenced to six years in the Eastern Penitentiary. He made a plea for mercy, and was rebuked by Judge Bittenger.

Ex-County Commissioner John T. Poore, of Buckmanville, is dead. Besides serving as Commissioner, Mr. Poore held several township offices.

John H. Rhodes, of Boswell, has begun suit for $15,000 damages against the Merchants' Coal Company, for injuries he claims to have received May 20 in riding on a car of the defendant company, by whom he was employed as a trip runner.

When Detectives Ward and Lebo, of Williamsport, attempted to arrest a man stealing a ride on a freight train, the fellow drew a revolver and opened fire on the officers. The detectives returned the fire, but no fatalities resulted. The man was arrested.

While Dr. William Howerter, of Kempton, and Charles Shallenberger were out driving their horse was frightened by a dog and ran away. The animal ran up a steep embankment and both occupants were thrown out of the vehicle and injured. The buggy was demolished.

A strike was declared at the colliery of tthe Falls Creek Mining Company, Dubois, affecting about 200 men. Ex-Congressman Hopkins, of Lock Haven, and Charles McKee, of Pittsburg, are the principal owners of the plant. The men claim the Altoona scale, adopted last spring, has been ignored by the company. They demand a check weighman, an eight-hour day and the scale rate for mining and all other work.

The representatives of Erie miners, in convention at Scranton, voted as satisfactory the reply of General Superintendent May to their grievances, and the trouble that has been brewing between the men and the company was amicably adjusted, a possible strike of 3000 miners being thus prevented.

Edward B. Coughlin, aged 53 years, a well-known musician and vocalist, of Shenandoah, was killed at William Penn colliery by a heavy pipe falling upon him while he was superintending the placing of new columns.

John Flanigan, of Reading, aged 55 years, died suddenly from heart disease in his room at the Hotel Coatesville.

Andrew H. Hershey, Ezra M. Good and Christian H. Nolt, of Lancaster, entered suit against the H. S. Kerbaugh Company, contractors, of Philadelphia, and the Pennsylvania Railroad, to recover $50,000 damages. The plaintiffs own islands in the Susquehanna River along the line of the new low grade freight line, and they claim that by reason of the heavy blasting done recently their properties have been destroyed and damaged or materially decreased in value.

AMONG CANNIBALS.

The Cannibal King—Take that missionary away.

Chief—What's the trouble, sire?

"He's tainted."—Life.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Miss Frog—Why in tears?

Miss Turtle—A horrid boy carved the date on my back so I can't keep my age a secret.

THEIR REWARD.

First Trained Seal—Think of having to do all these things for our board and lodging.

Second Trained Seal—But we are allowed to keep our skins, and, you know, they are quite valuable.

HORSE AND COW.

"Ah, your language! Eet ees so difficult."

"What's the matter, Count?"

"First zis novel eet say ze man was unhorsed."

"Yes?"

"Zen it say he was cowed."

AFTER-DINNER SPEAKING.

"What ought a man to do to become an effective after-dinner speaker?" said the ambitious youth.

"Well," answered Senator Sorghum, "the best way is to get a few sinecures so that you won't have anything to do except keep a scrap-book."—Washington Star.

WERE THEY AT IT THEN?

"I see they've dug up a lot of ancient clay bricks in Indiana."

"So?"

"Yes; antedating the glacial period and covered with cuneiform characters."

"Ah, prehistorical novels, no doubt."

HIS SAGE COUNSEL.

"I been thinkin' 'bout gittin' married," said a member of his flock to brother Williams. "You reckon I could git a marriage license fer a dozen watermelons?"

"I reckon you could," replied Brother Williams. "But my wholesome advice ter you is ter eat de watermelons!"—Atlanta Constitution.

NOT HIS STYLE.

"Now, my lad," said the old gentleman who was always giving advice, "try to grow up to be a useful man."

"I don't want to be a useful man," replied little Ostend.

"Why not?"

"Because ma says pa is a useful man when he stays home and helps her with the dishes and dustpans."—Detroit Tribune.

VERY PAINFUL.

"Major Bluffen tells us that he escaped out of one great battle with several hundreds marks on his body."

"Ah, stings of the cruel bullets?"

"No stings of the cruel hornets. The major, in his haste to climb a tree, overlooked a white nest that was hanging above him."—Detroit Tribune.

WHO'S TO BE BOSS?

"Mr. Meekley and Miss Strong are actually to be married, eh?"

"Yes, unless he gets scared and backs out. It makes him nervous every time she mentions the 'trousseau' she's going to wear. She pronounces it so much like 'trousers.'"—Philadelphia Press.

DEAR TO HIS HEART.

"Will you have another helping?" asked the neighbor. "You seem very fond of the chicken."

"And why shouldn't I be?" responded Suburban, who had been invited to dinner, "when I can detect the flavor of our flowers in every morsel?"—Detroit Tribune.

HANDICAPPED.

"Yes, sir," said the pompous citizen, who rates himself at half a million, "I began life a barefooted boy, and see what I am today!"

"That's all right," replied the easy-going man, whose sole assets consisted of one wife, six children and nine dogs. "You had a big advantage over me at the start."

"How's that?" queried the p. c.

"You began life a barefooted boy," rejoined the other, "while I was compelled to begin as a barefooted babe. See?"—Columbus Dispatch.

His Last Card.

A certain venerable archdeacon engaged as a new footman a well recommended youth who had served as stable boy. The first duty which he was called upon to perform was to accompany the archdeacon on a series of formal calls.

"Bring the cards, Thomas, and leave one at each house," ordered his master. After two hours of visiting from house to house the archdeacon's list was exhausted.

"This is the last house, Thomas," he said; "leave two cards here."

"Beggin' your pardon, sir," was the reply, "I can't—I've only the ace o' spades left."—Harper's Weekly.

THREE JURORS CURED

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler, of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Calbourne county, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the fix I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

Mrs. Rearick at Home.

Mrs. J. M. Rearick came home from the Medico Chirurgical Hospital, Philadelphia, Tuesday morning. Her condition is such that there is every reason to believe that the operation, for the removal of a cancerous growth, she underwent will result in her regaining her former good physical condition. Rev. Rearick went to the city Monday and accompanied her home. Aside from being tired from traveling, there were no serious results from the homeward trip.

Court Notes.

Argument court will be held Wednesday of next week, Judge McClure, of the Union-Snyder District, presiding.

The rule to discharge Gregg, the defendant in the McHugh case, will be argued next Wednesday.

J. Edward Stover, found guilty of participating in the Eby robbery, was sentenced to six months in jail.

The work of the court this week was of little interest to the general public.

LOCALS.

Heavy rains fell in various sections of the valley during the past week.

Ed. C. Nearhood, of Bellefonte, made a business trip to New York.

Potters Mills continues its distinction of being a real town, and sports a postoffice.

Potatoes are moving out of Penns Valley at a price ranging from thirty to thirty-five cents, in car lots.

A large porch, fronting on the west and south sides, is being built to the Lutheran parsonage, in Centre Hall.

The oats crop is threshing well to the acre. The grain is, as a rule, in good condition, for which the driving horse especially will be thankful.

Miss Gretchen Secrist, of Lock Haven, is in Centre Hall and will remain for several weeks at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Secrist.

In another column will be found the advertisement of Max Zerby, the traveling salesman, of Millheim, who will have a large stock of gents' furnishing goods, clothing, ladies' coats, skirts, linens, umbrellas, etc., on sale in one of the exhibition buildings, on Grange Park, during the Encampment and Fair.

Robert Neese, of Auburn, New York, was a pleasant caller, one day last week, having come to Centre Hall to spend a short time with his brother, John Neese. Mr. Neese and his brother Howard are engaged in conducting a general repair shop in Auburn, their principal aim being to remodel and repair automobiles.

Prof. James C. Bryson, principal of the Jersey Shore High School, writes the Reporter that the public schools of that place opened Tuesday, and that the borough had an enrollment of nearly 1200 pupils, one hundred and forty of which were members of the High School. Jersey Shore has just completed a new High School building, and will dedicate the same the latter part of this month.

Mrs. Andrew Kaul, of St. Mary's, accompanied by her little daughter and nurse, are guests at the home of Hon. and Mrs. L. Rhone, in Centre Hall. Mr. Kaul is a son of Judge Kaul, deceased, who was associated with Senator J. K. P. Hall in extensive business interests. While Mrs. Kaul is in Centre Hall, her husband is in Maine, where he is erecting an extensive hub factory. The family contemplate moving to the state named in the near future.

Aaronsburg.

Clayton Wyle and several members of his family, of Mifflinburg, were visiting friends in town.

Henry Haffley and Miss Powell, of Renovo, are guests at the home of Benjamin Haffley.

Miss Ruth Swabb, a highly esteemed young lady of this town, has gone to Colyer where she will teach school this winter.

Mrs. Evelyn Rogers, of Bellefonte, spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Coburn.

J. R. Wyle and wife, of Huntingdon, accompanied by Rollin Mother, arrived in this place Monday forenoon.

Miss Anna Bower spent Sunday with her Grandmother Bower.

Clarence Ettinger and family, of Iowa, are visiting relatives in town.

Gurney Wert arrived home on Saturday, after a few months' stay with his uncle, at Tusseyville.

Prof. Gann and family, of Williamsport, spent Monday at the home of Dr. D. F. Bowersox.

DEATHS.

MRS. MARY CONFER McKINLEY

This young christian mother, aged twenty-five years, passed from earthly scenes after an illness of several weeks, on 29th ult., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Confer, at Snow Shoe. She is survived by her husband, Charles McKinley, and two small boys, the younger being but a few months old. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Lathrop.

MRS. LAURA E. FETZER ECKLEY.

At the age of forty-five years, Mrs. William Eckley, of Milesburg, died on 31st ult. The services incident to the interment were held at the Advent church, Milesburg, and were attended by almost the entire community. The ministers present were Rev. A. C. Lathrop, Rev. Zeigler and Rev. Bingham.

MRS. ABRAM S. VALENTINE.

Mrs. Lillie U. Valentine, widow of the late Abram S. Valentine, one of the original members of the old Valentine Iron Company, died in Bellefonte Monday morning from internal hemorrhages. She is survived by three sons.

Death of a Little Child.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McClellan, of Tusseyville, are mourning the death of their youngest daughter, Mabel Viola, aged four years, three months. Interment took place at Zion cemetery, Rev. J. R. Sechrist, of the United Evangelical church, officiating, Tuesday morning. Death occurred Sunday previous.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

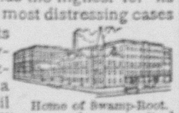
If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghampton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Harris Township High School.

For the Reporter.

The Harris Township High School will open its term of 1905-1906 Monday of next week. Prof. H. C. Rothrock has been elected principal for a term of three years. He is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, and is abundantly qualified to fill the position, both from a point of inteilect and experience.

The school board will heartily support the principal to build up the Township High School, and wish to announce that all scholars contemplating taking higher studies than those taught in the regular public schools, no matter where they are located in the township, are urged to attend this school. The Township High School gives the patrons an opportunity to educate their children at no additional cost over their regular school tax, which, indeed, is a great advantage.

The course adopted is the three years course, or a High School of the second class. The branches taught and advancement is sufficient to fit any one for the ordinary pursuits of life, or to enter college.

The Oil Well.

Digging at the prospecting well, east of Centre Hall, has been suspended for the past few weeks, owing to the fact that the contractor was hampered in financial affairs. The Penns Valley Oil and Manufacturing Company, up to this date have not expended a penny at the well, and consequently it is not the company that has financial troubles. The company's contract with the driller calls for the drill to have penetrated the earth to a depth of one thousand feet before payment is made. At present the depth reached is not quite half that many feet. The company stands ready, money in hand, to pay down as soon as the conditions of the contract demand it. After the well has reached the proposed depth—two thousand feet, and whether the well is a gusher or a duster—the company will be able to reach its obligations, and that easily.

There are good prospects that the financial matters will be adjusted within a short time, and drilling resumed. The tools are loose, and the hole straight.

Mostly Sixes.

The Reporter is indebted to a number of its patrons for cash recently received. Most of the subscribers purchased sixes — that inevitable six. Among others who responded are the following: Chas. C. Homan, D. H. Meyers, Samuel Gingerich, Mrs. H. J. Boon, Ex-Commissioner Daniel Heckman, James P. Durst, Geo. C. Markel, Willard Dale, Miss Lavina Smith, Robert D. Ross, John D. Moore, Isaac Long, Mrs. Elizabeth Searfoss, Ivy Barnes, Col. John Taylor, Henry Reinhart, R. W. Neese, Earl E. Lutz, Mrs. Adam Holderman, J. W. McCormick, Jas. H. Lohr, Prof. J. C. Bryson, J. Cloyd Brooks, Milton Kline, Miss Sara Cressler, Mrs. Mary Burkholder, Dr. McCluney Radcliffe.

Took Advantage of the Law.

Boyline Butler had dealings with a man whose word proved not to be as good as a bond. Mr. Butler, a resident of near Howard, took up a stray bull, fed him all winter, and in the spring he discovered that the bull was the property of Henry Potter, of Clinton county. The men agreed that Mr. Butler should be paid eight dollars for the keeping of the bull, but when Mr. Potter got the animal home he was advised that Mr. Butler could not collect from him because the stray had not been advertised. Butler sued for maintenance of the animal, as per agreement, but lost his suit, and besides had to pay the costs.

LOCALS.

Some people would get hot over a game of freeze out.

Miss Bethel Everts, daughter of Merchant O. D. Everts, of Martha, spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. Geo. O. Benner, in Centre Hall.

Mrs. Hall, wife of Bishop J. K. Hall, of Wilmington, Delaware, and Mrs. John Stuart, of State College, for several days last week, were guests of Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs, in Centre Hall.

Prof. John D. Meyer, superintendent of the Bellefonte schools, went to Bellefonte Monday to assume his duties. The position is one of great importance to the public schools of Bellefonte, and the citizens of that town will find him as conscientious in the performance of his duties now as he was when principal of the High School for the past few years. Mr. Meyer long ago realized the value of conscientious work and is himself at this time reaping a reward due to that element in him.

McAllister Hall, at Pennsylvania State College, is one of the best equipped institutions of its kind to be found at any college. The dining room has a capacity of almost one thousand persons, and the arrangement of the kitchen and up-to-date appliances installed there insure prompt service and properly prepared food. The rate is very low, being $2.75 per week. The caterer, Wm. H. Housel, is trained in his line of management, and the student who engages with him will find college life "what it is cracked up to be."

LOCALS.

Is there any significance in the fact that "Plummer" should be a candidate in a year that the plum crop is an entire failure?

The names and addresses of carpenters, painters and bricklayers are wanted by H. D. Swarts, Scranton. See his want adv.

Miss Eloise Schuyler found a gold safety pin, on the street opposite the home of C. D. Bartholomew, that she will gladly return to the owner, if made known to her.

Mrs. T. G. Wilson and children—Helen and Russel—returned to their home in Centre Hall last week, after spending several months in Schapville, Illinois, the home of Mrs. Wilson's parents.

The family of Elmer McClellan, of near Tusseyville, is being doubly afflicted. Last Tuesday the youngest of two daughters was buried, and at present the only child is ill, although some better than it had been.

Dr. McCluney Radcliffe, the eye and ear specialist, has removed his office to No. 1812, Chestnut street, Philadelphia, but still lives at 711 North Sixteenth Street. He has finely furnished rooms on Chestnut street, which are in keeping with the surroundings.

Capt. George M. Boal and George H. Emerick, of Centre Hall, were appointed appraisers in the Rebecca Sparr estate. They performed their work Wednesday, and were accompanied to Boalsburg by ex-Sheriff Brungart, one of the executors of the estate.

After spending two or more months in and about Centre Hall with friends and relatives, Robert and James Mullen, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mullen, of Allegheny, returned to their home last week, in order to be enrolled in the public schools of that city. The boys enjoyed the country very much.

About forty persons—young, middle-aged and old—picnicked on Grange Park Monday afternoon. They were friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lohr, of Philadelphia, who were here for a short time. The supper was enjoyed greatly, but not more than the sociability of the occasion.

At a meeting held in Harrisburg, Robert F. Sechler, of Lewisburg, postal clerk on the Lewisburg & Tyrone Railroad, was elected delegate to the National Convention of Postal Clerks to meet at Cincinnati, October 3rd. Mr. Sechler was one out of the five elected to represent Pennsylvania at the convention.

Howard Smith, of Loganton, who has been suffering with an internal affection, was taken to Williamsport and submitted to an operation, which disclosed a growth of a cancerous nature on the liver. No hope is therefore entertained for his recovery. Mr. Smith is a son-in-law of General D. K. Heckman, of Logantion.

Miss Edna Krumrine, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Adam Krumrine, of Tusseyville, is seriously ill of typhoid fever, and has been in a critical condition for the past week. She is also suffering from a weak heart. Miss Krumrine is a young lady held in high esteem, and for several years has taught school in Potter township.

Two local Sunday School Associations reported to the secretary of the County Association who is arranging for conventions in September. The district composed of Ferguson Township will hold a convention at Pine Grove Mills, September 14th. The superintendent in charge is W. E. McWilliams, of Pennsylvania Furnace. The district composed of Philipsburg and Rush Township is planning for a convention on September 21st.

Souvenir Postal Cards.

You will find at the Reporter office a souvenir postal card, very suggestive at this particular time, at one cent each.

Cider Press in Operation

A. P. Luse & Son will operate their cider mill at Centre Hall Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week, beginning Tuesday, September 12.

There is Money in Growing Ginseng

Prof. W. L. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Consul General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale ot Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $5 to $8 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a small outlay, and soon have a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen. Write us today for literature.

"Till Death Us Do Part."

Oft in the lapses of the night,
When dead things live and live things die,
I touch you with a wild affright
Lest you have ceased in sleep to sigh.

There is no Truth I fear to face,
Not e'en the record of my heart
That brands me recreant from grace,
Except the truth that we must part.

Before the phantom of that hour,
Time's Officer to you and me,
A miserable wretch I cower
And plead for pity, hopelessly.

"May we not tread the path," I cry,
Together? None the way can miss;
It ends against the sunset sky—
A turning or a precipice.

The Gate Leading Into the Lane.

BY JOHN N. RAPHAEL.

"I wish John would come home," said Mrs. Carrisbrooke, for the nineteenth time since luncheon.

"If you would let me light the lamps and draw the curtains, Miss Aggie," said Fergusson, who, having been nurse to Margaret Carrisbrooke's mother before her, could not get used to the fact that her mistress had for several years now had a right to a more matronly title, "if you would let me draw down the blinds, pull the curtains well across and light the lamps, you wouldn't feel so nervous. Sitting here in the dusk like that is enough to make any one feel spidery, I'm sure"—

"Fergusson, I've got no patience with you!" cried Aggie Carrisbrooke. "You think nobody can think but yourself, and you can't think a bit. You know perfectly well that lamps can't be lit without oil, and that there's no gas and no electricity in this horrid old ramshackle cottage. How selfish men are! I hate men!"

And little Mrs. Carrisbrooke looked more like "Miss Aggie" than ever, as she shook the curls out of her eyes, in which two angry teardrops were pearling, and rubbed her flushed cheeks into flame with a square inch of Valanciennes-bordered handkerchief.

It had seemed to the Carrisbrookes the jolliest and most unconventional thing in the world to take Hambledon Cottage, instead of making the round of autumn visits which they usually made before settling down in their cosy little flat in Curzon street. The cottage was a small one, comfortably furnished, and had been built, Mrs. Carrisbrooke declared, when she first saw it, in the later days of Noah, for it combined much of the architecture of the Ark with several small conveniences which long confinement in that structure must have taught him to be useful.

Both Aggie and her husband had the same tastes; both were fond of shooting, and the cottage carried some good shooting with it. Besides both wife and husband were motor-car enthusiasts and for the first few weeks at Hambledon time flew by very swiftly.

Then one day—the day of this story—it occurred to Mrs. Carrisbrooke that they had seen enough of one another; that they were "a guestless and forlorn old couple," and she dispatched her husband "out into the highways and hedges" to bring guests. In other words, she sent him with the car to Badmington to bring back Florence and Jack Fotheringay, who had been married on the same day as the Carrisbrookes and were their closest friends.

"Florence can bring her maid," said Mrs. Carrisbrooke to her husband as he left, "and she and Fergusson are all the servants that we want; besides which, Dickson"—Dickson was the chauffeur—"will always lend a hand, if necessary. And mind that you are back for tea at 5 o'clock."

It was past 5, and had been growing dusk since 4, and not until too late did Aggie Carrisbrooke remember that she had forgotten to order in more petrol from the village for the lamps that morning. The lamps in the cottage were of the old fashioned, petrol burning kind, and in the morning when her husband started off upon his guest hunt, as he called it, he had bespoken their contents to fill his tanks, and promised that he would order a fresh supply for her in Hambledon as he passed through.

Manlike, he had forgotten all about it; unfortunately, his wife had not thought of it, either; Fergusson did not know that there was no lamp oil, and, in consequence, the house was lightless.

"Where are you going, Fergusson?"

"Down to the village, mum, for oil to fill the lamps. You can't sit here in the dark, with nothing but the flicker of the fire to see by, and"—

"Fergusson, I absolutely forbid you to go out! Do you think I am going to sit here all alone, with not a living soul in the house except Jasper"—Jasper was the cat—"while you go down to Hambledon and back again? Why, I should die of fright! I'm frightened as it is. This house is horribly lonely, and there have been all sorts of awful stories in the papers lately about attacks on lonely women and— What's that?"

"That" was a branch of the chestnut tree out in the lane which a gust of wind had blown against the iron gate, rattling it across the bars with rather an uncanny sound. "I'm getting horribly frightened, Fergy," said her mistress. But Fergusson, a stout old lady of the mother-of-the-British yeoman type, laughed at her, sat down in the armchair by the fire, and drew "Miss Aggie's" head onto her shoulder.

"I do wish John would come back," remarked Mrs. Carrisbrooke again. "Fergy, there's somebody down at the gate leading into the lane—a man! I saw him, and he's trying to climb over. Oh, Fergy, Fergy, we shall all be murdered in our beds!"

"Now, don't be foolish, Miss Aggie—don't you now!" said Fergusson. "We can't be murdered in our beds while we're sitting by the drawing room fire. And there isn't anybody at the back garden gate. Why should there be?"

The gate leading into the lane behind Hambledon Cottage was never used, and had not been opened since the Carrisbrookes had been there. It was at the back of the house, and even the tradespeople used the front gate as a rule. Still, as Fergusson presently said, there wasn't any reason why one of the tradesfolk shouldn't have more manners than the rest and go round to the back for entrance, as they all ought to.

The wind was whistling loudly, too-whooing like a mammoth owl, and presently above it rose a clanging, clattering sound, which the two women in the drawing room both heard, though very faintly.

"He's trying to get in!" almost screamed Mrs. Carrisbrooke. "That was the sound of his boots on the sheathing inside the lower part of the railing. And I can see him. Look, look, Fergy! There. Don't you see there's a man, standing right up against the gate?"

"And if there is, Miss Aggie, what of that?" said Fergusson. "It's probably somebody with the petrol which master ordered, and which the lazybones at Tantler's didn't think to bring up to the house till now. I'll just go down and let him in."

"Fergy, you shan't, you shan't!" and little Mrs. Carrisbrooke became almost hysterical. But Fergusson was made of sterner stuff, and, after a short lecture on the foolishness of sitting there without a light, and thinking about ghosts and burglars and such things as that, when there was cheerfulness and light down at the bottom of the garden, she put her shawl on and declared her intention of going down and letting in the man. "What we heard was probably him ringing at the gate," she said.

"It couldn't be!" gasped Mrs. Carrisbrooke, crying a little. "It couldn't be! The b-b-bell is broken. I noticed that this morning."

"Then he was kicking of his toes agin the ironwork along the bottom, Miss," said Fergusson. "It isn't manners, but it's just exactly what I should expect of that young man from Tantler's. And now I'm going down."

"Then take John's pistol with you, Fergy, or the carving knife, or something."

"Miss Aggie," said the old lady, with a chuckle, "I wouldn't carry one of them revolver things down the back garden in the dark, not if there was a burglar, but I know. I should bad characters a'waitin' to get in. I might frighten the burglar, if it was a burglar, but I know I should do myself an injury. And don't you be so foolish, dearier. Burglar's don't make no noises down at gates. They just gets in and burgles. That's their business." And, kissing her young mistress, Fergusson told her to look at the fire and not at the window, and went down to the gate leading into the lane.

It seemed to Aggie Carrisbrooke that her old nurse had been gone several hours. She had her fingers tightly rammed into her ears, and tried hard to keep her attention on the fire, but couldn't manage it, and suddenly she jumped up and ran to the window. Yes, there was no doubt of it. The gate into the lane stood open wide, and up the garden path came Fergusson, running as fast as she could, her gray hair fallen down and streaming out behind her, and her usually ruddy face white with ungovernable terror.

Aggie tore out to the front door to let her in, slammed, bolted and chained it behind her, and, before giving or asking any explanation, the two women, womanlike, fell into one another's arms and sobbed for sympathy.

"The knife, the knife!" said Fergusson, when she could get her breath. "When I got down to the gate he said something gruffy about keeping him waiting, and then pushed right in past me."

"Why did you open the gate?" Aggie asked with trembling lips.

"I don't believe I did, Miss Aggie; I don't believe the gate was locked at all. And there he stood, with a great, gleaming, pointed knife in his hand. I can see the blade of it now, and I—well, I run."

"You—you did run, Fergy," whispered Aggie, smiling through her tears.

The two went back into the drawing room again, locking each door they passed through as they went, and waited in an agony of terror for death—or Mr. Carrisbrooke's return.

Not more than half an hour later the loud panting of the Panhard brought its welcome message, and Carrisbrooke and the Fotheringays were very much alarmed when they heard what had happened. "I never gave the petrol for the house a thought," said Carrisbrooke, "but there is plenty in the car. And in a few moments lights were lit and home looked like home again.

The two men took their revolvers and set out for an excursion round the house. They came back laughing.

"I didn't find your fearsome burglar, Fergusson," John Carrisbrooke said, when he could speak, "but I found this upon the kitchen windowsill. It probably explains the mystery."

"Why, it's our carving knife!" said Fergusson. "I gave it to the grinder yesterday."

"And probably the grinder was the burglar," Carrisbrooke remarked. "Anyway, here is this message." The blade of the knife had been run through a dirty slip of paper, on which was scrawled: "ill kum beck termorrer fer ve frippuns."—The Sketch.

TAKING ANOTHER NAME.

Nothing in Laws to Prohibit It—Reasons for Making Changed.

"Custom has made it almost universal for all male persons to bear the names of their parents," said an attache of the local court the other morning. "It seems natural that it should be so. Nevertheless, there is nothing in the laws of this country prohibiting a man's taking another name, and no legal penalty is attached to his doing so. There is always, however, a possibility of its being attended with inconvenience and perhaps loss to himself.

"There is a way by which a man may change his name with the sanction of the law, and that is the only safe way. But the law requires him to assign some good reason for the change. Men have assigned various reasons for wishing to change their names. Sometimes a man wishes to drop his right name because it is of foreign origin and difficult for an American tongue to pronounce. This may injure him in his business, as there is such a thing as prejudice even in this free and enlightened commonwealth. Or his name may have in English an absurd or even vulgar meaning and subject him to unpleasant jokes, or it may associate him with some notorious criminal or be the counterpart of some name which history made infamous, or it may be mis-spelled and consequently mispronounced on his entry to this country.

"Frequently infants are left orphans or abandoned by the father after the death of the mother. In that case it is a frequent occurrence for relatives or neighbors to take a child and adopt it, giving it their own name. In that case the party desiring to adopt must apply by a written petition to the court at the place in which he lives, asking leave to adopt the child and change its name to that of the petitioner. The order allowing the adoption and the change of name must be filed with the court, so that the real parentage of the child may be subsequently established if necessary.

"When an adult applies for leave to change his name he must give his place of birth, residence, age and whether he is married or single and whether there are any judgments against him or outstanding commercial paper in the name which he seeks to abandon. If in any of these cases the court is satisfied there are no objectionable reasons the order is permitted granting a change of name. The order must be filed with the clerk, and thirty days thereafter the new name may be assumed. The granting of the notice must within ten days thereafter be published in a newspaper designated by the court.

"Thus the law protects the person who for good and sufficient reasons desires to assume a name other than his own. The order of the court being recorded, all the rights of the individual which may subsequently accrue to him under his original name are preserved, his identity being under the law fully established."

LOCOMOTIVE AS FIELDER.

Baseball Story Told so Many Times Marylanders Believe it.

In the baseball annals of Texas, Baltimore County, is an incident which, whether an actual occurrence or not, has been repeated so often that it is invested with the force of fact, says the Baltimore Sun.

On a hot Fourth of July, back in the eighties, when the catcher held his position behind the bat without mask, and the pitcher knew no curve or toe plate, there was a game of ball between the Texas Sluggers and the Timonium Little Potatoes, But Hard to Peel.

The Sluggers had got in some good stick work early in the game, and the visitors were just feeling the big Texans pitcher. It was the fifth inning and the Little Potatoes had two men on bases, one on second and the other on first, when one of their home-run hitters, who had been asleep up until the moment, struck the ball.

It cleared the entire field, and would have fallen on the railroad track, but just at that moment a train came along and the ball disappeared in the smokestack of the engine.

The train was going at a lively speed up grade, and the force of the puffs ejected the ball. The momentum of the train carried it until it fell in the third baseman's hands, and a double play was the result.

After much kicking from the Little Potatoes as to whether the play was fair, the side was retired, as the double play made three hands out.

GET ENOUGH SLEEP.

How often does one hear women remark that they cannot sleep. Any person who cannot sleep is ill, and a person who is always sleepy is not well. A healthy person sleeps only during the time allotted for rest, and the sleep will be at an average of the same duration. Just how long one is to sleep quite depends upon the person. Children as they are growing need more sleep than older people.

For a grown-up person a sleep from seven to eight hours' duration should be quite sufficient. But how does one obtain a healthy sleep? One of the foremost necessary conditions is the thorough ventilation of the sleep apartments. Without the proper amount of fresh air a healthy sleep is not possible. Late suppers also are a menace. If the stomach has to attend to its duties of digestion while one sleeps it cannot rest. And with the stomach there are other organs affected. Also indigestible things should not be taken at a late evening meal, and there is one point which should not be overlooked; that is, to have some rest before going to bed. The right time for sleep is before the hours of midnight, because the sleep before that time is most beneficial, and counts double. Nine o'clock or a little later is the time for going to bed, and if possible do not go to bed later than 10.

Society women, of course, cannot follow this rule, but they manage to make up for lost sleep in the daytime. This is not so beneficial as it might be, but nevertheless with great care a woman is able to keep her youth for many years. There is nothing so good as the cold bath in the morning and no other treatment will take its place. The cold plunge and a massage is perhaps the greatest remedy for all ills, excepting, of course, when the doctor probibits. All of the care taken of the body without the assistance of sleep is quite useless, and women who wish to retain their beauty must have enough sleep.—Newark Advertiser.

GIRLS DISLIKE HOUSEWORK.

Factories are overwhelmed with applicants for work, sweat shops flourish on cheap and abundant labor, department stores turn away thousands of would-be salesgirls, typewriters are legion, there are more teachers than there are places, and the cry of the unemployed is oftn heard in the land. Yet households are broken up, cafes glitter, restaurants issue cheap meal tickets, carding houses multiply, and the American home is yearly growing less, because the American housekeeper cannot obtain willing and competent service. In factories are girls who would rather cook, in shops women who would make good housekeepers, hundreds of typewriters are reeling off badly spelled words who would make creditable waitresses, and many are teaching school who should be doing anything else in the world. The Woman's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston made a systematic effort to attract the workers in shops and factories to domestic service, but with signal failure. From 564 women who were asked to consider housework, only 36 applied, and these were not altogether satisfactory. Their dislike for the work is frankly stated to be on account of the long hours, no evenings for themselves, the isolation from other workers, and the social stigma that attaches to the occupation.—Jane Seymour Klink in the Atlantic.

A PLUCKY WOMAN.

Miss Elizabeth Thielman has just completed two years' work as a contractor, during which she made $50,000.

Miss Thielman was the only child of the late Frederick Thielman, a New York City contractor, who died two years ago, leaving several unfinished contracts for grading and paving certain streets in upper Manhattan. Miss Thielman knew nothing of the contracting business, but she decided to complete the unfinished contracts as a means of clearing up all outstanding accounts against her father.

She hired Italian laborers, skilled men for paving, and has personally superintended the work for the last two years. She visited the work daily, and has sometimes had to go personally to saloons to find employees who were putting in their time there. She has completed the contracts, clearing up enough to pay debts of $50,000 against her father's estate.

Isaac A. Hopper, an old friend of her father, declares that Miss Thielman could, with the experience she has gained, continue the contracting business and make a good living if so inclined. She will take no more contracts, however, now that those from the city are filled. Immediately on their completion she left for Maine for a rest.

NEWEST STREET SKIRTS.

The newest street skirts, whether long or short, fit closely around the hips, being in many instances closely gored or cut circular at the top. Some of the most famous makers are turning out walking skirts of the popular small plaids or checks, cut entirely on the cross and circular, so that they fit smoothly around the hips, gathering fulness as they descend.

As a rule, these skirts have seams down the middle front and, possibly, a line of trimming there. Other models have flat braid trimming running round the skirt or are plain save for stitching.

With these skirts in the delightful invisible plaids or checks, some smart little boleros, with or without postillions, trim and severe save for a modish waist coat and some braid or stitching to correspond with the skirt trimming.

The decided charm of these imported check and plaid woolens is gaining popularity for them—a popularity so pronounced as to threaten their continued vogue. We shall be exceedingly tired of shepherd's plaids and their variations before the season is over, but in high class goods there are check and plaid effects that are uncommonly attractive. — Rochester Post-Express.

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST.

One of the loveliest dresses is of satiny liberty silk in delicate pink. And it might well serve as a costume for a bal masque if the fair wearer had a floral headdress, though it is not at all loud and none too showy for any evening wear. This dress is a flounced affair, the skirt being in triple flounce effect. Each flounce is cut out in petal shape around the edge and between these petals another petal of palest pink chiffon is introduced. The petals are edged with tiny pink sequins and the veilings are done in glistening silks. Three shaped flounces form the elbow sleeves and the pretty blouse bodice is likewise formed of three overlapping sections, these, like the skirt flounces, being edged in this petal effect. It would be difficult to design a lovelier dress. For a fair one too short to wear the triple skirt effect, one flounce could be trimmed deeply and be as pretty, without detracting from the height.

CURLS AND HATS.

The tip-tilted hat of extreme fashion requires a considerable amount of hair, and that hair arranged in curls, puffs and waves, to look as picturesque as it ought to, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Not every woman who desires a hat of this sort has the necessary capillary endowment, so the modish milliner comes to the rescue with curls, knots and puffs to fill in the hollow places, the hair attachments being secured with a long pin. This combination of hat and hair purchase originated in Paris, to the profit of the French milliner and the vogue extended to London. The smart New York girl follows the example of her European cousins, though she may not be so frank about acknowledging it as they, but it is safe to assert that if her route takes her anywhere near the Flatiron building when the wind is blowing she adds a few anchors to the long pin that the French or Englishwoman finds all sufficient to keep hat and curls in place.

ECONOMY IN GOWNS.

There is always the danger, when materials are so cheap and attractive as they are at the present moment, of spending more money than is either necessary or wise. To accumulate too many gowns, no matter how little each may cost, is the greatest mistake, for the sum total will be found to be considerable, not to mention the amount of time and labor that has been spent in their manufacture. A good plan is to buy one entire good gown every spring and autumn, and then have the other gowns that are absolutely necessary made at home and on simple lines, always fighting against the tendency to accumulate more than are needed. Rather a few satisfactory gowns than many halfway ones. It is no small task to keep a lot of clothes in perfect order, and in these days the finish and detail are of major consideration.—Harper's Bazar.

THE PLEASING COUNTENANCE.

Faces have an influence that words can never have. The eyes, the brow, the lines of the whole visage, speak out as the tongue can never speak. The face is not merely physical; it changes inevitably as the inner man changes. Hard thoughts, evil designs, selfish ambitions show through the countenance as in no other way. And the influence of these inner thoughts and purposes of ours is felt by those who merely look at us. It is not enough that we should have a care about words and deeds as influencing others; the very countenance itself, lighted from within, should speak forth a clean, wholesome message to all who look us in the eyes.—Great Thoughts.

THE WOES OF GIRLS.

Whatever a girl does it seems inevitable that she should be laughed at, and she must learn to expect this. A few years ago she was called a "bluestocking" for her devotion to learning; next an "empty-headed, over-dressed doll"; and now she is "a creature of iron muscles, of waistless symmetry, of biceps and ungainliness." Should she turn her energies to cooking and domesticity, she becomes a "mere household drudge."—Edith Thompson in Cassell's Magazine.

CANNING FRUIT.

There are three fruits that preserve their flavor well when canned. They are peaches, blackberries and tomatoes. It is very difficult to preserve green corn and okra in cans. But every family should put up an abundance of tomatoes and blackberries. Sugar need not be used in the process. Glass jars are considered best, but clean tin cans, with the waxed cord for sealing, will keep well, and they cost less than the glass jars. Canned blackberries make fine pies and rolls, and are enjoyed by nine-tenths of the people. We have seen okra preserved for making soup by cutting it crosswise in thin sections and drying in the shade. It gives soup a fine flavor. Another way to preserve it is to put it in salt and preserve it in brine. It has to be soaked before using. We cannot vouch for that plan, as we never tried it.—Progressive Farmer.

HOME NURSING OF TODAY.

The three graces indispensable in a sickroom are sunshine, fresh air, and cleanliness.

Sunlight may be shut out for days, but, except in rare cases, it is a welcome guest some time during the illness, and at all times during convalescence; it has wonderful power to cheer and invigorate the patient mentally and physically.

An open fire is first cousin to the sunshine. "Beauty on my hearthstone blazing," Lowell poetically calls it; furthermore, it is a valuable aid to ventilation.

Fresh air comes next. Thank goodness, we have graduated from close, stuffy rooms and the "breath of air" that was supposed to chill the patient. We have learned to leave the windows open a few inches night and day, at the top, not below, and the fresh air circulates gradually down into the room, instead of blowing directly on the patient.

Should the invalid cling to the worn-out theory of "not changing the air of the room," you may circumvent him by opening a window in an adjoining room, and the fresh air will enter without his knowledge.—Harper's Bazar.

SERVING FRUITS.

Small fruits, such as berries and currents, shoud be moderately chilled. To have them too cold renders them severely acid and unpalatable.

Peaches, by the way, should be at a medium temperature, about as they would be if kept a few hours in a cool cellar.

Small soft fruits must be washed before they are seeded, else they will be watersoaked. Under no circumstances use the hands on them; rather place them in a colander and lift it up and down in clear, fresh water.

What are known as the sub-acid fruits should be as cold as putting on ice will make them. Among these fruits are melons. Do not put ice in them after they are cut or in any way opened, else the flavor will be lost.

To serve a watermelon—it having been first washed and cooled in the refrigerator—cut it in halves (this is supposing it to be a moderately long one. Then cut a slice from the rounded end, so that it will stand up firmly on the greenery-covered plate.

Then, finally, scoop out large, egg-shaped pieces with a tablespoon or a serving spoon. It is in bad taste to load up the plates with the unwieldy rind.

RECIPES.

Hot Rolls—One pint milk, one-quarter cup sugar, whites of two eggs, two quarts flour, one-half cup butter, one yeast cake and salt to taste. Sift salt and flour in bread pan and warm water, one teaspoonful sugar and flour enough to make a batter. Place in warm place to rise for about fifteen minutes. Put milk, butter and sugar in small tin bucket on the stove until butter melts. Stir all together; add yeast to this and mix in bread pan, together with eggs well beaten. Make into dough and let rise until very light. After that roll out thin, cut with a biscuit cutter and spread with butter; fold each over and place in a buttered pan. Cover the tops of rolls with white of egg. This makes them glossy.

Julienne Soup—To six pounds of lean beef (preferably the shin with bones well cracked) add five quarts water. Put this in a covered kettle on the stove to heat slowly. Let it boil for six hours, taking care that the water does not get too low. After that set aside, well covered, until next day. An hour before needed remove the bones and the fat on top, set the soup on the fire and flavor with salt. When it boils skim it carefully and put in the vegetables. These consist of two carrots, three turnips, one-half head cabbage, one head celery and one quart tomatoes, all cut up fine and boiled tender before placing in soup. The cabbage should be cooked by itself. Add also the water in which the vegetables were cooked. Boil slowly for one-half hour, then strain. Pepper and salt should be added, and macaroni, rice or other vegetables may be added if desired.

It is alleged that the mutineers of the Kniaz Potemkin got $350,000 out of the warship's strong box. This may account for their eagerness to go ashore, suggests the Chicago Record-Herald.

She Was Safe in Natick.

Little Hester, 4 years old, was visiting her grandparents, who are very strict Scotch Presbyterians. One day, having done something naughty, her grandmother took her in her arms, talked to her about being good and finished by saying: "God sees you, and he will not love you if you are not a good little girl."

Hester opened wide her wondering eyes, and gravely looking into her grandmother's face, said: "But, grandma, he can't see me when I am at home, for there is no God in Natick."

A WOMAN'S SUFFERINGS.

Weak, Irregular, Racked With Pains—Made Well and 36 Pounds Heavier.

Mrs. E. W. Wright, of 172 Main St., Haverhill, Mass., says: "In 1898 I was suffering so with sharp pains in the small of the back and had such frequent dizzy spells that I could scarcely get about the house. The urinary passages were also quite irregular. Monthly periods were so distressing I dreaded their approach. This was my condition for four years. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me right away when I began with them, and three boxes cured me permanently."

Poured Gold in His Teeth.

This story has come to light in a police court. A young man from Chicago arrived in New York, hoping to obtain work as a waiter.

He failed, and was arrested for stealing a roll of cloth from a tailor shop, in broad daylight. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and told the following story:

"All the money I had was spent. I had no friend to help me get work. I pawned my overcoat and spent the money I got on it, except 15 cents. I spent that for a pair of jliers, which I used to to rip the gold teeth from my mouth. These cost me $75 and I pawned them for $3.50, all I could get, and when that money was gone I had to steal or starve.

"I went to a clothing shop, picked up a roll of cloth in plain view of its owners, and stood ten feet from the door, waiting to be sent to prison, where I would be sure of a bed and some food."

Recorder Goff paroled the young young man and the officials saw that he was sent to his home in Chicago.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Harvard's President Appreciated.

Some years ago a physician was summoned in haste to attend a patient at N———. On arriving at the island, and inquiring for a conveyance to the house he wished to visit, he was directed to a farmhouse. Here the doctor found a man, whom he requested to harness a horse, at the same time, in the interest of his patient, desiring him to be lively.

The man pleasantly and promptly complied, harnessed the horse, and was speedily driving over the road at a good rate. The doctor discussed farming, and was struck with the general information and conversational powers of the driver. On arriving at the house half a dollar was tendered the man, but it was politely declined.

"What is the name of your intelligent farmer?" asked the doctor, after he had finished his professional visit.

"What, the gentleman who brought you to the house? That was President Eliot of Harvard."

London's Fatal Accidents.

London's average death-roll by accident among males is between four and five per diem. London's male population numbers 2,161,897, so that the risks of death by accident are more in London than in the rest of the country. Every two days throughout the year nine Londoners are killed by unpremeditated violence.

OUST THE DEMON.

A Tussle With Coffee.

There is something fairly demoniacal in the way coffee sometimes wreaks its fiendish malice on those who use it.

A lady writing from Calif. says:

"My husband and I, both lovers of coffee, suffered for some time from a very annoying form of nervousness, accompanied by most frightful headaches. In my own case there was eventually developed some sort of affection of the nerves leading from the spine to the head.

"I was unable to hold my head up straight, the tension of the nerves drew it to one side, causing me the most intense pain. We got no relief from medicine, and were puzzled as to what caused the trouble, till a friend suggested that possibly the coffee we drank had something to do with it, and advised that we quit it and try Postum Coffee.

"We followed his advice, and from the day that we began to use Postum we both began to improve, and in a very short time both of us were entirely relieved. The nerves became steady once more, the headaches ceased, the muscles in the back of my neck relaxed, my head straightened up and the dreadful pain that had so punished me while I used the old kind of coffee vanished.

"We have never resumed the use of the old coffee, but relish our Postum every day as well as we did the former beverage. And we are delighted to find that we can give it freely to our children also, something we never dared to do with the old kind of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum Coffee contains absolutely no drugs of any kind, but relieves the coffee drinker from the old drug poison. There's a reason.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

People who claim to be blunt generally have the sharpest tongues, the Boston Transcript asserts.

It's a fine thing to be your own master if you don't care about pay days, avows the Samel (Va.) Times-Register.

It is significant that Peary started for the North Pole wearing a straw hat, says the Newport News Times-Herald.

Abdul Hamid, the Sultan of Turkey, is reported to be in a critical condition. The case wouldn't be so bad if the Sultan could only feel sure that the doctor wasn't trying to poison him, remarks the Chicago Record-Herald.

Some of the peace envoys were doubtless disappointed to find that, owing to unsuspected geographic conditions, the President could not take them out from Washington some morning on a bear hunt, the Washington Star remarks.

American writers fall into the error of mistaking the cordiality they meet with in Canada and the whole-souled friendship of the Canadian people for love of Americans and American institutions, says the Toronto (Diet) World. They cannot get it into their heads that the Canadian people, as a rule, are indifferent to what is going on in the United States, and that the love of British institutions is too strong to permit Uncle Sam's holding even an obscure place in the Canadian heart. The syndicate writers put Samuel in first place and King Edward in second. But what does it matter?

"Sixty thousand wives in Manhattan alone are abandoned every year," says Magistrate Pool in the West Side Court of New York City. "Every morning the police courts are crowded with women, leading from one to six children, begging the magistrates for warrants for their husbands. The evil of wife desertion has grown to menacing proportions. The lawmakers of the State should give it their most serious attention, and frame statutes to meet and kill the evil."

Wu Ting Fang, now the Chief of the Commercial Bureau at Pekin, is the author and executor of the Chinese boycott of American goods. He lived with us just long enough to learn what would hurt us most. To think of the banquets we gave him and of his speeches to which we listened. How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless Fang, observes Town Topics.

When Russia is again a power to be reckoned with, new bonds of national interest will come into being and readjustments will ensue by which the disturbed balance will be restored, says the New York Times. The rise of liberal institutions in Russia would in the nature of things result in the establishment of a balance based not upon the caprices of ambitions of soverigns, but upon the interest of peoples. Europe and the world have need of a new Russia.

But whether the actual figure be a little above or a little below the 4,000,000 line, New York is still the second city in the world in population, as it is the first in wealth, states the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Greater London had 6,581,000 people in 1901, at the time of the latest census. It has 7,000,000 now. But if New York could annex towns as readily as London does it would show a population of more than 5,000,000 now. The New York metropolitan district would be behind London's district, but not to anything like the extent which the present restricted figures show.

Fine opportunities for the woman architect are suggested by the number of women's clubhouses which are being erected all over the country, relates the New York Evening Post. Surely a woman architect should know more of the requirements of a woman's building than a man. So reason the projectors of the new clubhouse to be built by the Lynn, Mass., women. Miss Josephine Wright of Cambridge designed the building, and will supervise its erection. Miss Wright planned the Massachusetts building at the Pan-American Exposition, and built Craigie Hall at Cambridge.

Why He Changed His Mind.

"I understand old Closefist has bought an automobile."

"Why, I heard him say he would not give his carriage and horses for all the autos in Texas."

"Yes, but his wife prevailed on him to get the auto."

"Why so?"

"Well, she found out that her daughter intended to marry the coachman."

"Well?"

"Well, she thought it would be disgraceful for her to marry the coachman, so she concluded to get an automobile and save the family from social ostracism by having the coachman become a chauffeur."—Dallas News.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says:

"Distribution of Autumn merchandise is in progress unusually early this year, and the volume of forward business is so heavy that the last half of 1905 promises to establish a remarkable record of commercial activity.

"Current retail trade is well maintained, the urgency of orders received by jobbers indicating that dealers' stocks are becoming depleted, and there is little complaint regarding collections.

"More labor disputes have reached settlement, and no serious controversies are threatened, while in many sections the supply of wage earners is inadequate. Freight blockades and insufficient rolling stock cause delay, despite widely extended facilities as compared with last year, and this trouble will probably increase as the crop-moving season advances.

"Special reports regarding manufacturing conditions have been received from about forty leading industrial centers, and there is surprising unanimity in the statements. With scarcely an exception plants are working close to full capacity, with little idle machinery, excpt where altrations or improvements are in progress, and contracts on hand far exceed those held at this date in 1904.

"Equally gratifying is the confidence expressed in the future, a prominent feature of most reports. Encouraging crop prospects provide a large share of the good feeling.

"Failures this week numbered 190 in the United States, against 205 last year and twenty-seven in Canada, compared with thirty a year ago."

"Bradstreet's" says:

"Wheat, including flour, exports for the week are 1,170,340 bushels, against 1,068,519 last week, 1,084,333 this week last year, 3,245,056 in 1903, and 5,436,530 in 1902."

TRY TO MISLEAD DOCTORS.

Too Many Patients Refuse to Speak the Truth as to Their Ailments.

It was late, the doctor's patients had either passed away or were mending, and he was sitting with a number of his acquaintances in a corner of the clubroom.

"It's a strenuous life we lead," droned the man of medicine, "with the grim side turned uppermost as a rule, but now and then we get a laugh out of it—a laugh with the lid on, of course; we can't afford to show we're amused. I often wonder," he went on, genially, "why some of you chaps ever send for a physician. You don't tell him the truth once in twenty times. You're in a bad way and you're sorry, and to hear you talk I'd think your mouths were cold storage boxes for butter. You suspect that lobster or a rich sauce you ate the day before yesterday is at the bottom of the trouble. You know what's curled up in you and you're frightened out of a year's growth for fear I'll learn.

"Accordingly, instead of taking me into your confidence you tell me an impossible story. And if I cross-examine you closely and hedge you in you'll reluctantly admit that you've been somewhat indiscreet. You smoked four cigars Thursday and took six drinks. Doesn't it ever occur to you that I know by your flutters that you smoked from breakfast to bed and took sixteen drinks and six more for good measure?

"If I were to believe you and dose you for your ailment as you describe it you'd never get well. Now and then I have to give you strychnine and nitro-glycerine to restore the action of the heart and to listen to you I might conclude that you'd had too much pink ice at a children's party.

"As I hinted, we doctors get some fun out of you, but what do you do it for? We were not always doctors, we haven't always taken the best care of ourselves and we're not fools."

Signature Thieves.

It is difficult to get access to the government's historical documents and papers in Washington, and they who do get access to them are always accompanied, as they make their consultations, by a guide.

H. Clay Evans said recently that a big percentage of the government's documents have been robbed of their signatures. The signatures, if of value, have been cut out by thieves. Hence the precautions that are taken to-day.

Autograph hunting is thought to be not very common, and yet so many hundreds of the signatures of Washington, Hamilton, Burr, Lincoln, Jefferson, etc., have been stolen from governmental documents that it appears as if every American citizen, on seeing a good autograph, feels that he has the moral right to lift it.

For five years, though, thanks to the vigilance that is now maintained, no autographs have been lifted from the government's archives.

ADVERTISE IN THIS PAPER IT PAYS

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot Be Overestimated.

Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women glorious in the possession of perfect physical health upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have attained the very heights of ambition; because of them even thrones have been established and destroyed.

What a disappointment, then, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-dead-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a drag upon her husband.

The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often all the doctoring does no good.

If a woman finds her energies are flagging, and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, whites, irregularities, or despondency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This great remedy for women has done more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health.

Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every woman who is in poor health and ailing.

Its benefits begin when its use begins. It gives strength and vigor from the start, and surely makes sick women well and robust.

Remember Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested to by the thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory. Merit alone can produce such results.

Women should remember that a cure for all female diseases actually exists, and that cure is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Take no substitute.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

Music for Sunday Service.

The choirs of all the churches in Centre Hall have been invited to conduct the music jointly, for the Sunday service, in the auditorium, Grange Park, on 17th inst., at 2.30 o'clock.

A committee of one from each choir has been appointed to arrange the same. This committee is composed of Geo. H. Emerick, Wm. H. Bartholomew, Thos. G. Wilson, Prof. E. W. Crawford and J. Samuel Rowe.

A joint meeting of the choirs will be held in Grange Arcadia, Tuesday evening, September 12, 7.30 o'clock.

A Dandy Liar.

Jared Osman, of Butler, Missouri, sent the Reporter the appended corn story. The farmer referred to lives near Adrian, ten miles north of Butler, and is a dandy:

Mr. William Brosswso, living about four miles west of Adrian, says his corn stalks were two inches thick and twenty-two feet high, but not a silk was to be found on his farm, although the tassels were fine, so he decided to cut it up and save the fodder and sow the land in wheat.

When he commenced to plow, to his great surprise and satisfaction, he found that it was the potato variety which he had planted, and that under the roots of each hill he found just fourteen ears, besides a half gallon of shelled corn, which is to be left in the field for the hogs to root for, and thereby leave the ground all plowed for the next crop. He now solicits orders for his new seed.

Prizes Offered.

Pratt Food Company, Philadelphia, offer the following special premiums, which will be on exhibition and delivered by the committee at the time of the Grange Encampment and Fair, to the drawers of the same:

I. O. O. F. At Philadelphia.

On account of the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., to be held at Philadelphia, Pa., September 16 to 23, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Philadelphia, September 15 to 19, inclusive, good returning until September 25, inclusive, from all stations on its lines in the State of Pennsylvania, at greatly reduced rates. An extension of return limit to October 5 may be obtained upon all tickets from points over one hundred miles distant from Philadelphia by payment of fee of $1.00 to Joint Agent, in whose hands all such tickets must be deposited immediately upon arrival at Philadelphia. Such tickets will be good for return passage upon date of withdrawal from Joint Agent. For specific rates and further information, apply to nearest Pennsylvania Railroad Ticket Agent.

Albert Colvin Killed.

Albert Colvin, of Schellsburg, a graduate of State College, class of 1904, who became known to many in this place by frequent visits, during his college course, at the Presbyterian Manse and elsewhere, was recently killed. He was employed in West Virginia, and while at work was struck on the head by a heavy casting which some Italians were unloading from a car. He never regained consciousness. He was buried at his boyhood home. Thus ends after only a little more than a year of work the life of a young man who was well prepared for his chosen profession, electrical engineering, and who gave promise of a useful career.

The Farmer Telephone Committee Meet.

The committee appointed by the Centre County Pomona Grange to investigate the terms to be offered by the various telephone companies in Centre county and decide which company held out the most advantageous proposition, met in Bellefonte Saturday. Messrs. Gann and Robb, representing the Bell and Commercial companies, respectively, were before the committee, but the latter company did not have its proposition in writing, consequently action in the matter could not be taken by the committee.

Teachers' Institute.

The Centre County Teachers' Institute will open Monday, November 13. This will be the first institute under the management of Superintendent D. O. Etters, and it will be useless to say that he will make his best efforts to have the most capable and experienced instructors during the week. The institute will be, more than ever, calculated to enthuse teachers and create an educational sentiment throughout the county.

Centre Hall, Pa.

Dear Sirs: You understand chemistry; how'd you like to earn $1000?

Devoe lead-and-zinc—that's the name of our paint that takes fewer gallons than mixed paint and wears twice as long as lead-and-oil—is made of white-lead, white-zinc, its color, turpentine dryer, and linseed oil.

If any chemist finds any adulteration in this paint we'll pay his bill and $1000 besides.

It's nobody's business what we put in our paint, of course: but we want it known. For lead-and- zinc and linseed oil, ground together by machinery, are the stuff to paint with; and lead-and-oil mixed by hand is not.

We want it known that one word describes the best paint in the world; and that word is Devoe.

Yours truly
F. W. DEVOE & CO.,

COURT NEWS.

Jury Returns a Verdict of Not Guilty in McHugh Case.

Commonwealth vs. Herritt, two counts, larceny and receiving stolen goods. Prosecutor, Mrs. Nora Welsh. The case was from Curtin township, and was brought on the charge of stealing and selling a calf. The verdict of the jury was not guilty, but defendant to pay all costs.

Commonwealth vs. Samuel Coble, Jr., assault and the wantonly pointing of firearms. Prosecutor, John Coble. The defendant was found guilty on both counts and recommended to the mercy of the court. Sentenced to a fine of $10 and costs of prosecution.

Commonwealth vs. Annie Dulen, assault and battery. Prosecutor, D. Z. Frain. Bill ignored by the grand jury and costs put on the prosecutor. A counter case brought by Annie Dullen was disposed of in the same way.

Commonwealth vs. Thomas Hazard, larceny. Prosecutor, John Miles. Bill ignored by the grand jury.

Commonwealth vs. Geo. M. Harter, assault and battery. Prosecutor, D. Z. Frain. Verdict not guilty and the costs divided, the prosecutor to pay one-fourth and the defendant three-fourths.

Commonwealth vs. Thos. A. Eye, indicted on three counts: entering mill at night to commit felony; larceny; receiving stolen goods. Prosecutor, John F. Lucas. The case was from Moshannon, and from the evidence the defendant was caught in the prosecutor's mill in the act of stealing a bag of corn. He was compelled to leave without the corn and was prosecuted as above. Verdict of guilty was returned by the jury.

Commonwealth vs. Jas. Edward Stover, indicted on three counts: larceny; receiving stolen goods; conspiracy. Prosecutor, Edward D. Baker. This was a case growing out of the robbery of the Eby brothers, of near Woodward. Defendant was charged with making keys to the large chest of the Ebys, with having taken money therefrom and given keys to the Fultz's by means of which they were able to rob the aged men. A verdict of guilty on the first and third counts was returned by the jury.

Commonwealth vs. William Long, assault and battery. Prosecutor, William F. Peters. Defendant, plead guilty.

The trial of Winfield Gregg, charged with being implicated in the death of Michael McHugh, on the night of April 11th last, near Sandy Ridge, was called Thursday afternoon.

Defendant was called to the bar and entered a plea of "not guilty." He is sixty-five years of age and a veteran of the civil war.

The jury panel was almost exhausted before the twelve men were secured. The names of jurors selected are as follows: Adam Fisher, farmer, Boggs; James A. Decker, butcher, Ferguson; W. A. Bodle, farmer, Spring; John J. Osman, farmer, College; W. H. Conley, mechanic, Unionville; W. C. Kline, shoemaker, State College; Curtis Meyer, laborer, College; F. M. Fletcher, teacher, Liberty; Michael Heaton, farmer, Boggs; A. J. Johnson, carpenter, Worth; Andrew Shook, gentleman, Rush; Michael Woomer, stone mason, State College.

After hearing considerable evidence, and occupying the time of the court up to Saturday forenoon, Judge Orvis instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "Not Guilty," which they did. The old man Gregg received the verdict very calmly. The charge of assault and battery still hangs over him and Commonwealth insisted on holding him on the charge so he was remanded back to jail in default of bail.

The sum and substance of the matter is, the unfortunate McHugh and the defendant were on a spree, and the former lost his life by drowning.

THE BEST SHOES

Free SHOES Free

A Chance to Get Your Winter Shoes For Nothing.

This beyond question is the greatest chance ever offered by any Shoe House in the State. It is simply this: On a certain day during the month of September every purchase made at our Store—no matter how large or how small it may be—will be free. What day is it, nobody knows.

The way it is done is very simple. Twenty-five envelopes each containing a number that corresponds with the week days of the month of September (Sundays and Labor Day omitted) were put into a hat and well shaken. Mr. John Shugart, cashier of the Centre County Bank, Bellefonte, selected one of the envelopes and has placed the same in the vault at the bank. Mr. Shugart does not know what number it contains, we don't, you don't. On the 1st of October the envelope is opened and every person who has purchased Shoes on the day corresponding to the number contained in the envelope will have the amount of money they spent at our Store that day returned to them. We keep a record of each purchase made. Now let us see how lucky you are. If you need Shoes you cannot afford to miss this offer.
